
PEERAGE 1979

The Class of '79, through the traditional Senior Class symbol which they painted on the gym roof, expresses the thought that all things are "Within Our Grasp."

. . . Are Tomorrow's Brightest Memories

Louisa Gerard proudly displays the button that distinguishes her as a mighty senior.

As we reflect upon the memories of our past year we are drawn to the memories of certain people and certain places. Our dearest friends and favorite hang-outs will remain foremost in our minds for a long time to come. The best moments of our lives here at Princess Anne have been spent together. We have been together for classes, clubs, and athletic events, and the Cavalier spirit has held us together. These moments in our lives will truly help to form our brightest memories.

Chemistry students Terry Armbruster, Therese Van Petten, and John Low conduct an experiment with great interest.

People And Places

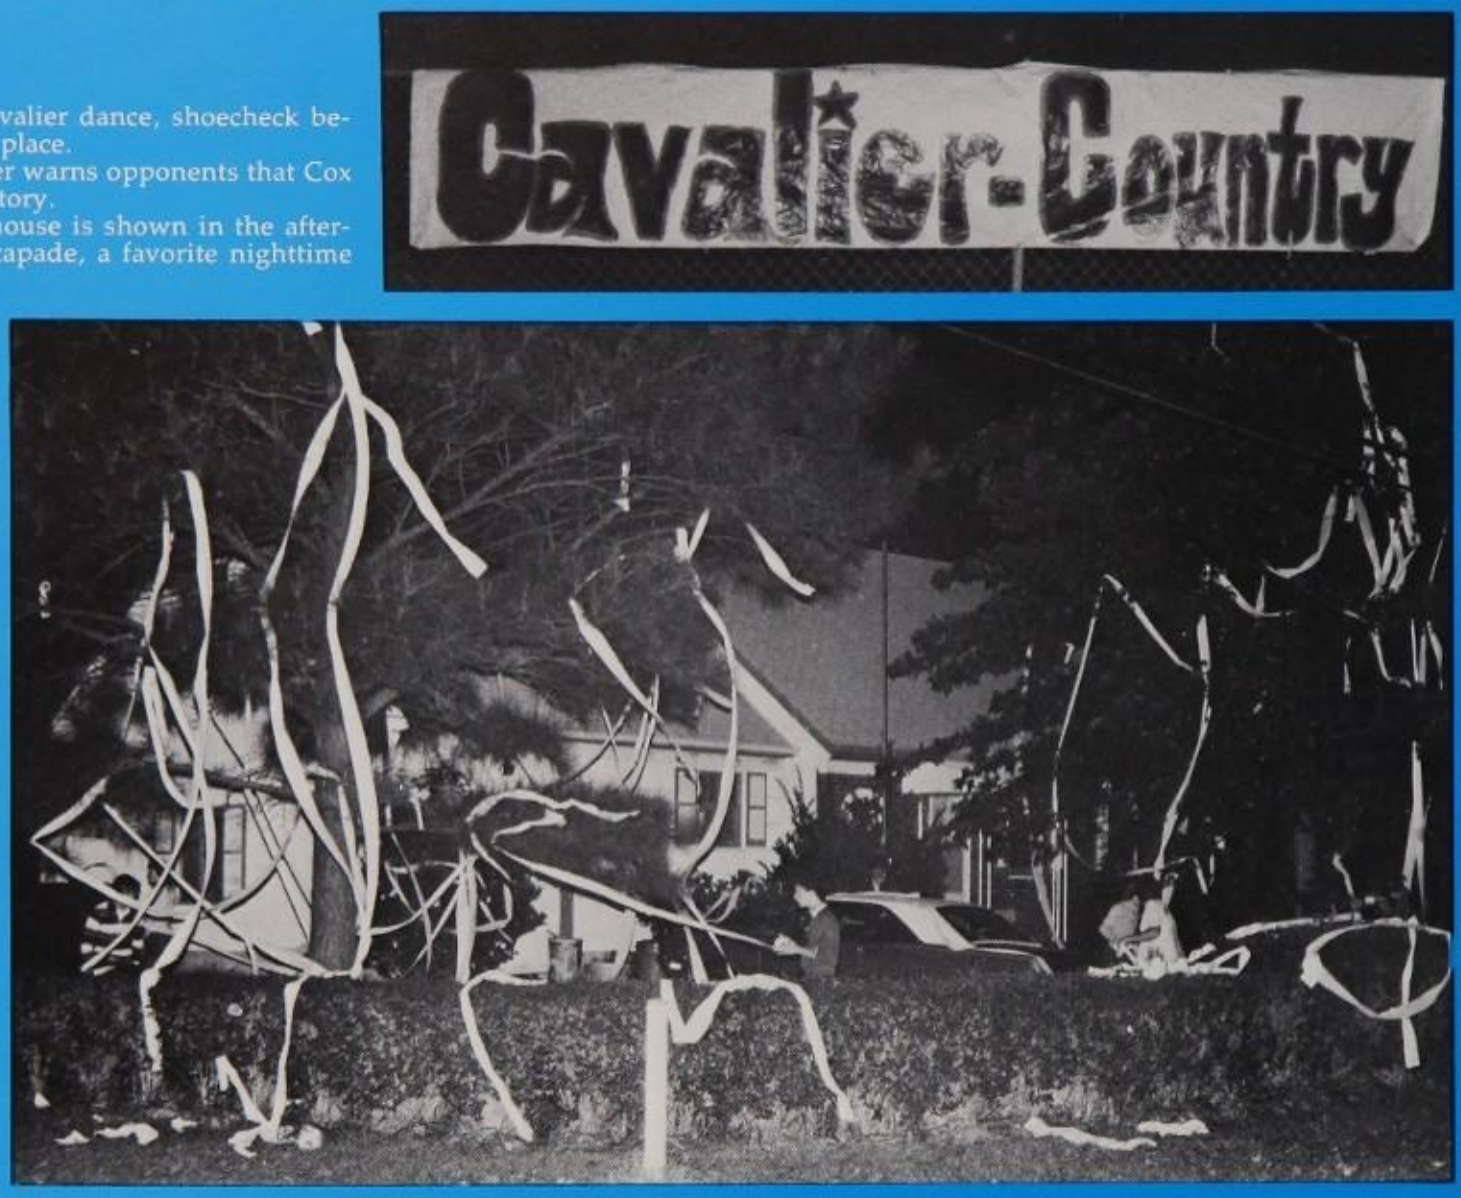
Below: A student's house is shown in the aftermath of a rolling escapade, a favorite nighttime activity.



After school activities have added many happy moments to our lives throughout the year. Special friends have been constantly by our sides as we have enjoyed pizza parties at Pizza Inn, games, dances, and club and class activities. We have been up together and down together. We have celebrated together in our victories and have remained unified in defeat. Our extra-curricular activities have truly been rewarding. They have given us some of the best moments of our lives with good friends in special places.

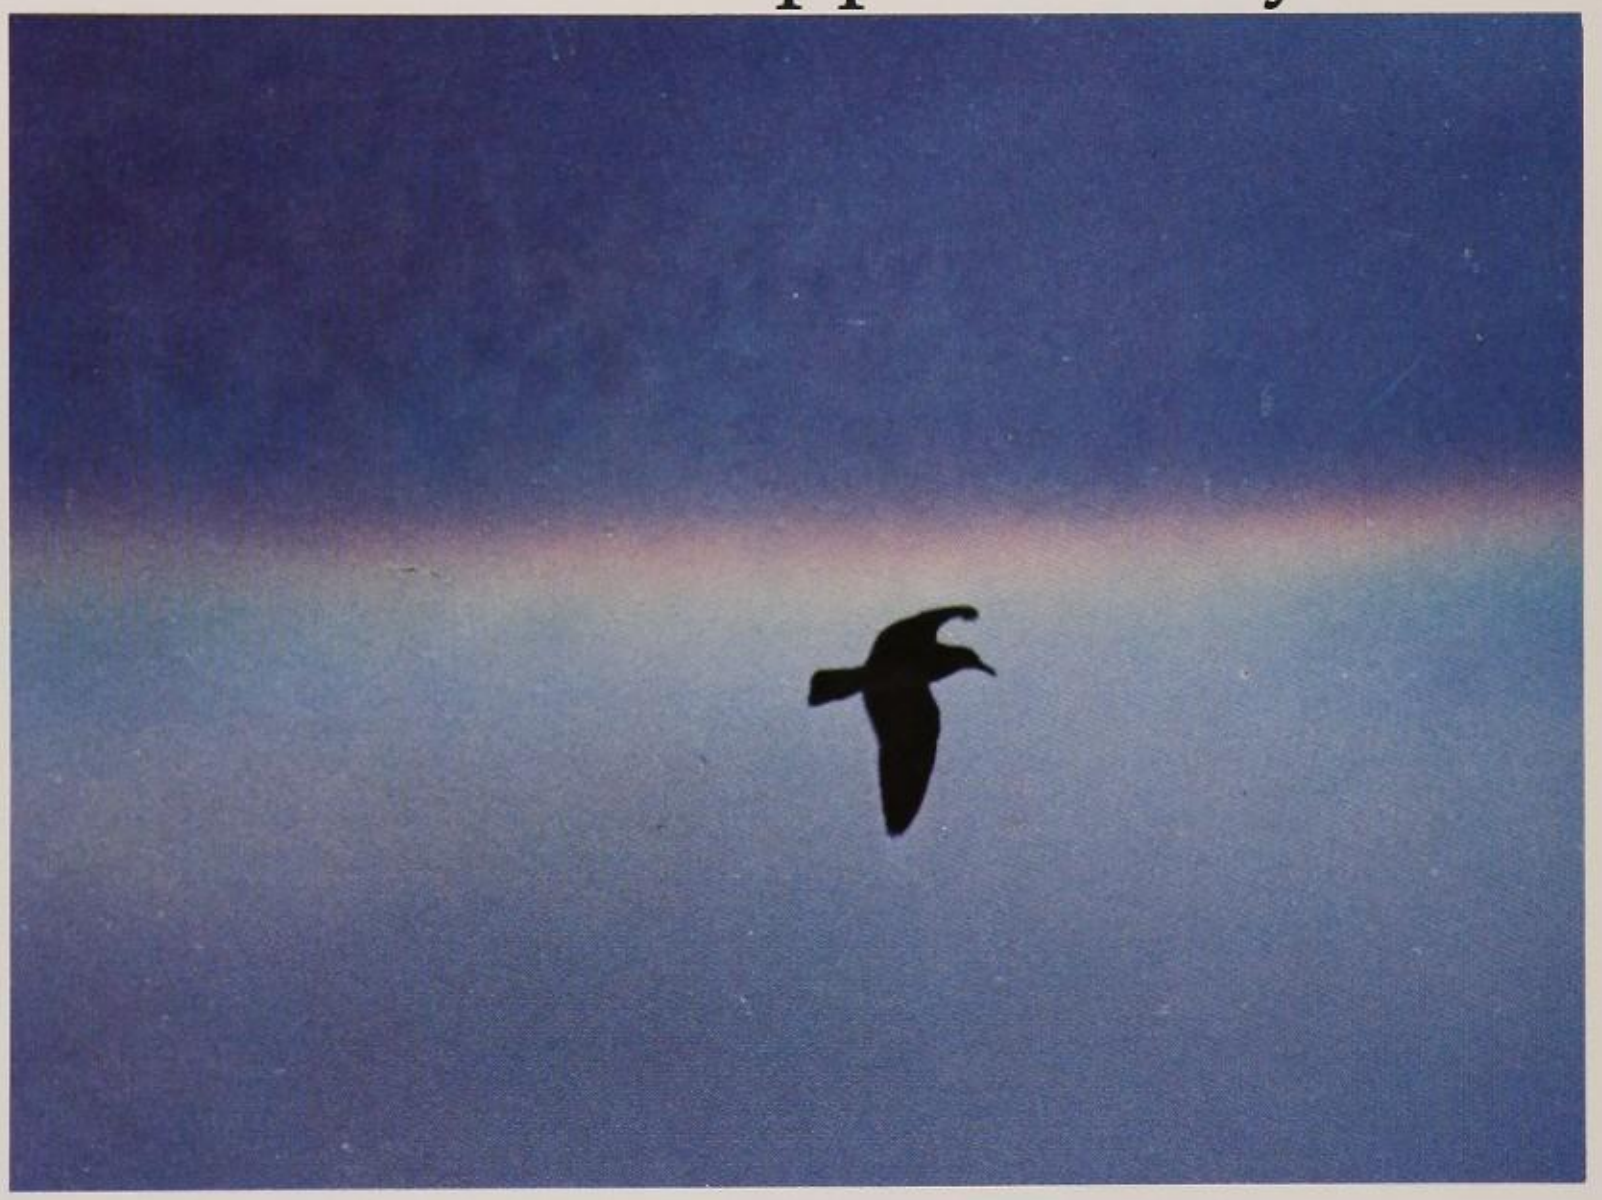
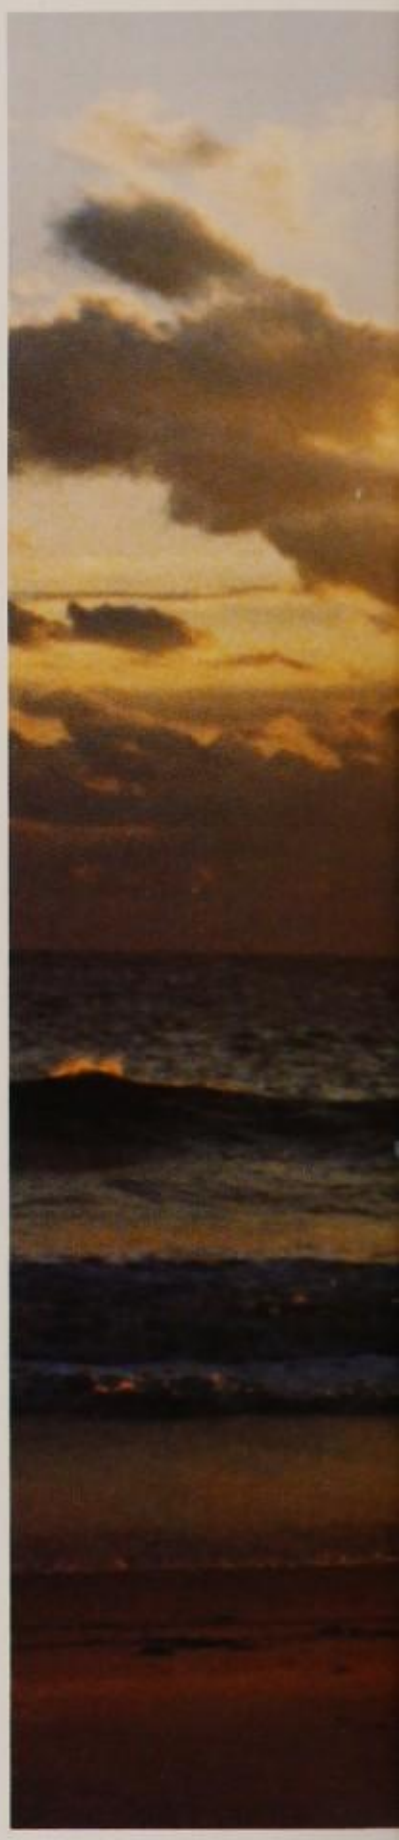
Those seniors sure can eat pizza!

. . . Time Has Slipped Away . . .





As we think back upon the time we have spent at Princess Anne High School the memories are not entirely of the school itself. We have been lucky enough to have spent this time in Virginia Beach. Our memories will not stop with those chilly nights at football games and crowded dances in the gym. Our high school memories will also include watching the sun rise over the peaceful ocean, taking quiet walks with friends along the shore, and wading in the cool foam at the water's edge. We have been together through so much more than just school functions. All of the times we have spent together have been etched into our minds, and as we reflect upon them in later years, we will find them to be some of the best moments of our lives.

Above: As the rays of the rising sun are reflected on the peaceful waves a lasting impression is made upon our minds.
Above left: A lone bird seems to search for the end of the rainbow as we search for the way to reach our goals.
Left: The rising sun as seen through tall sea grasses will cause us to recall many happy memories in the years to come.

For some people school didn't end when the dismissal bell rang. Sure, classes ended at 2:00, but "School" itself went on for hours, encompassing not only our days but our nights and an occasional weekend or two as well.

Many long hours were spent constructing homecoming floats, building sets, and putting together the Miss Princess Anne Pageant. These activities are what we remember about our school year . . . plays, dances, queens, talent shows, pageants . . . the reflections of Princess Anne.

Floating Through Another Year

Below: P.A.'s Barbershop Quartet composed of Ken Busick, Gene Westbrook, Tim Dodge, and David Mattern entertain during the half-time ceremonies.

The mighty Senior Class turned back the hands of time to the Biblical Garden of Eden. Their second place float extended to mankind the message, "Paradise Is Still Within Our Grasp."

The evening of Friday, October 27th held excitement for everyone at Princess Anne. For weeks prior to this date, the Homecoming committee, headed by Tina Riccio, had put much time and effort into organizing Homecoming. Classes and clubs had also spent unending hours working to produce floats and cars sure to be remembered.

At 7:00 on Homecoming night Princess Anne began to "Turn Back the Hands of Time" beginning festivities with the parade which included everything from antique cars to floats to show horses. The judges were sure to have a tough decision, as all the floats looked extremely fine!

Half-time brought us the entertainment of the "Barbership Quartet" as the suspense mounted. The Fabulous Marching Cavaliers contributed greatly to the evening with a superb half-time show.

Finally, the time had come to recognize the winners of the evening. Ann Kaiser, chosen as Homecoming Queen for 1978, was crowned by her sister, Pat Kaiser, the reigning queen of 1977. The results of the float competition came as a surprise to all when tradition was broken and club and class competition was combined. The foreign language clubs' float, the Loch Ness Monster, took first place. The seniors secured a second, and the junior float received a third. The crowd applauded all the effort put into each "masterpiece" as the parade proceeded around the track.

The football game played against the Titans of Lake Taylor resulted in yet another victory for the Cavaliers with a score of 48-12.

After the game, the music of Skylight pleased those who attended the Homecoming Dance.

Homecoming, from the bonfire on Monday night to the dance that finished off the week, was a huge success.

Sister Queens

After the traditional half-time parade, the Corvette Club of Virginia Beach drove the twelve lovely girls of the Homecoming Court around the track to the fifty yard line. The eight seniors on the 1978 Homecoming Court were: Jenny Baldwin, Louisa Gerard, Ann Kaiser, Eleta Milner, Leanne Self, Stephanie Taylor, Wanda Ward and Sally Ziegelbein.

The junior representatives were Denise DiNardo and Robin Newcombe.

The sophomores were represented by Dana Buckman and Jean Kaiser.

Ann Kaiser was crowned as Homecoming Queen for 1978. Ann's activities include being selected as a Neptune Princess for the Neptune Festival and being a member of Trinity Tri-Hi-Y for three years.

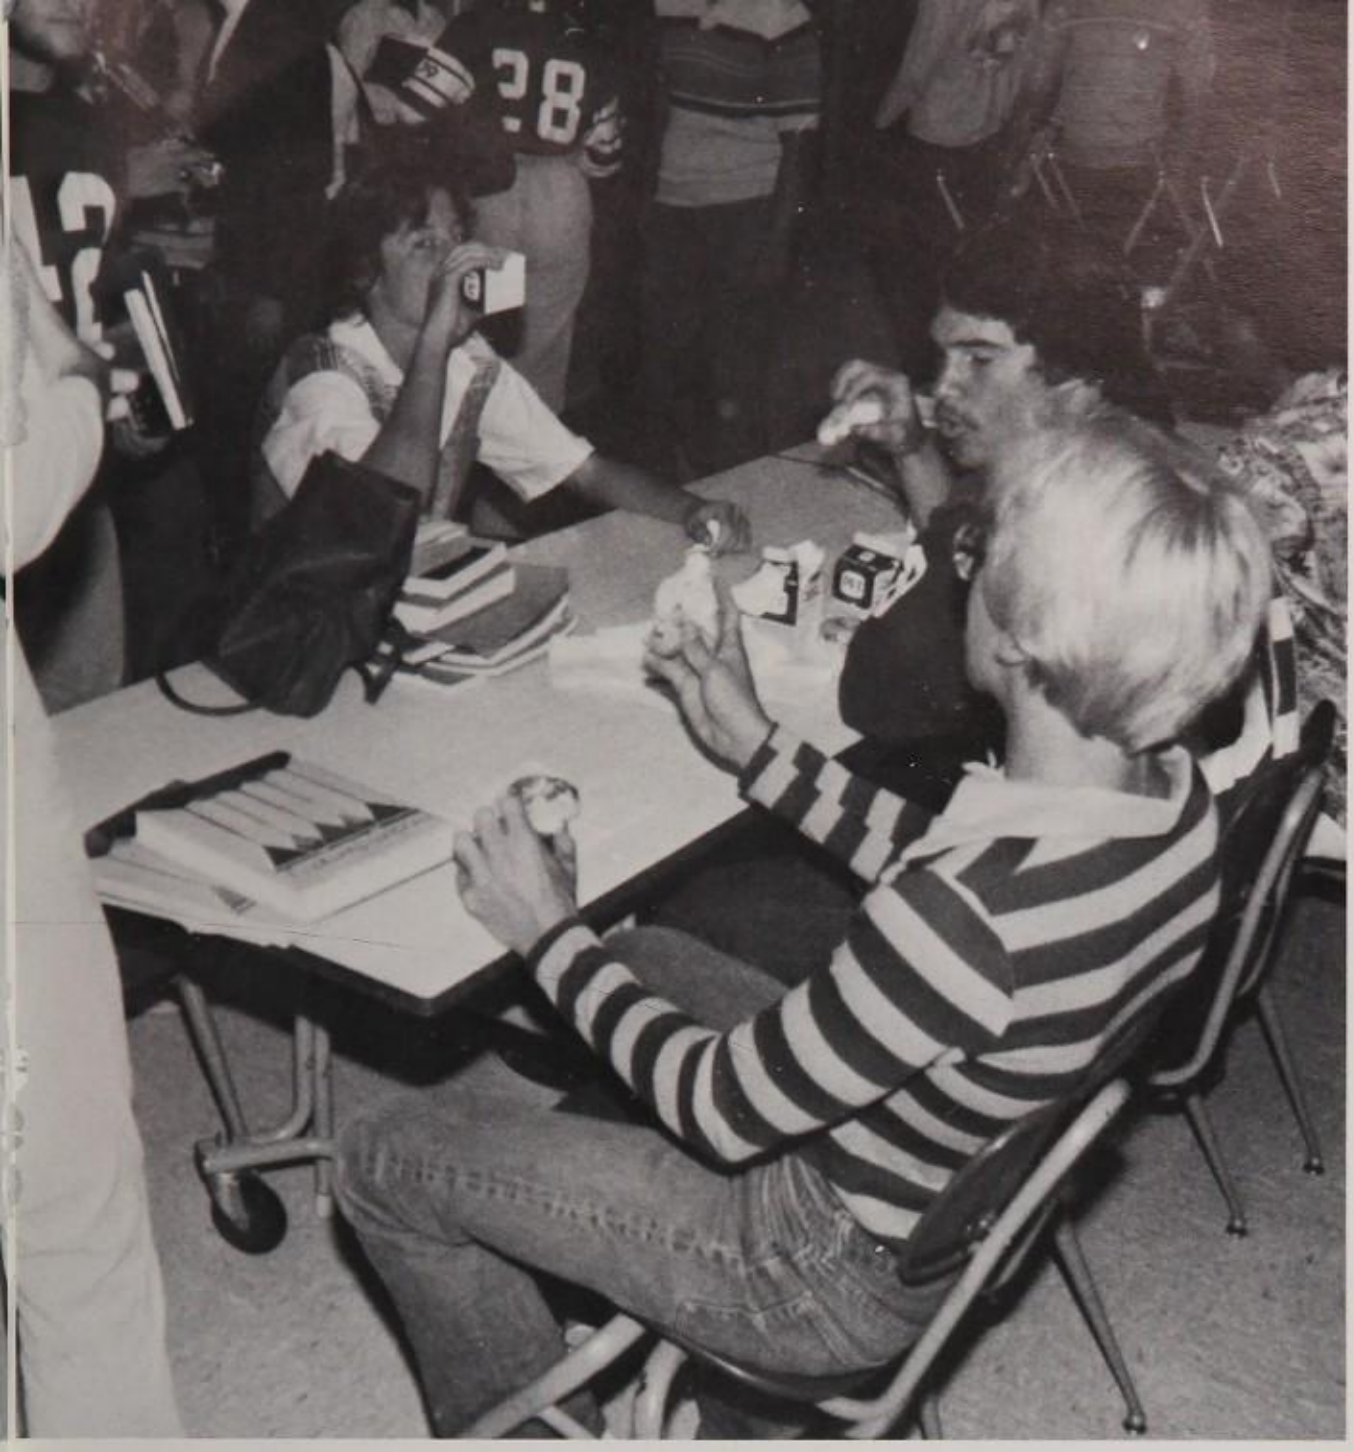
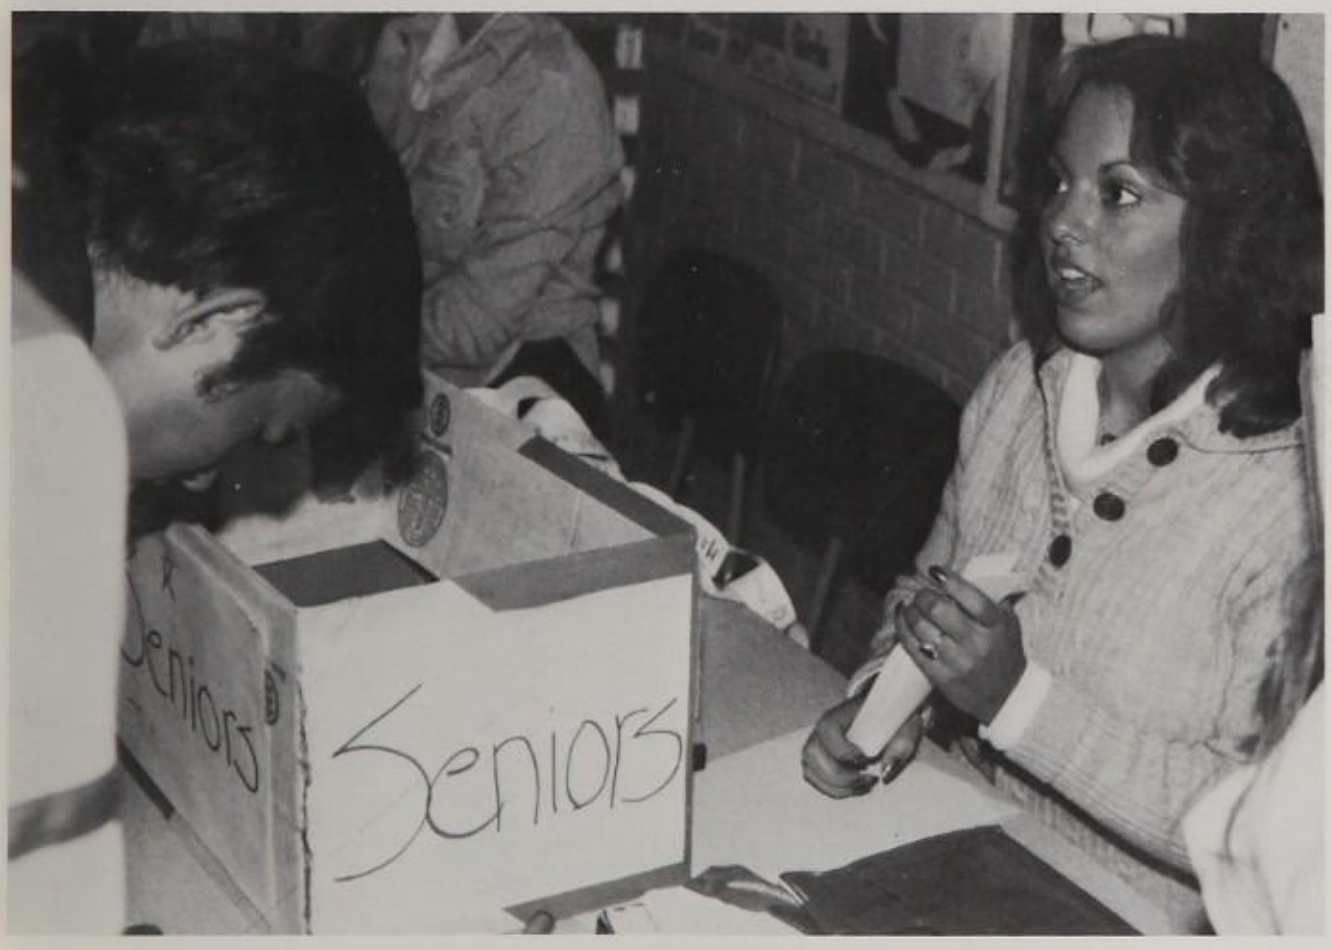
Promoting



Many underclassmen enjoyed the Homecoming Breakfast sponsored by the Senior Class.



A last minute push by the seniors helped them win the spirit chain competition.

Cavalier Spirit

This year Homecoming was more than the festivities of the game and dance on Friday. The S.C.A. organized a whole week of spirit-rousing fun for Princess Anne!

Monday night's bonfire kicked off the gala events of the week. The 1978 Homecoming Court was introduced. The cheerleaders encouraged enthusiasm by leading the classes in a cheering competition. Our mighty Cavalier football team was also introduced and applauded by the crowd. A schedule of the week's events was read as a conclusion to the evening.

Wednesday and Thursday were busy days for the competitive classes at P.A. During lunch on each day, chain links were sold outside the cafeteria at 5¢ per link. As the end of the competition neared, students even persuaded the faculty to donate money for links for the class's chain. The winners with the longest chain, the seniors, were announced at the game on Friday.

Thursday also brought the frantic decorating of halls after school. On Friday morning the halls never looked better, and it was evident that Cavalier spirit abounded. On Friday at the game, the juniors received the first place ribbon for their efforts on their hall.

Homecoming Day, Friday, began with a breakfast of doughnuts, juice, and milk sponsored by the seniors. Throughout the day, the decorated halls and special liveliness about P.A. made students and faculty both look to the game and its festivities with much anticipation. This week of competitions had made P.A. even more ready for the Lake Taylor Titans on Friday night.

The Time Has Come

As the evening of May sixth finally came, the mounting suspense turned to excitement. The gym, was magically transformed into a park. Home-Cookin' was the selected band. The 1978 May Court and their escorts, the Ten Most Outstanding Sophomore Boys, gathered around the maypole and began the traditional maypole dance to the theme song, "The Time Has Come."

The May Court consisted of the following girls: Laurie Burge, Kim Cox, Denise DiNardo, Dianne Givens, Joyce Maggard, Sherry Naujoks, Robin Newcombe, Robin Ray, Annie Richardson, and Karen Wright. The Ten Most Outstanding sophomore boys included: Scott Doody, Jimmy Funaro, Bobby Hill, Tim Holloman, Scott Mansfield, Joey Mishkofski, Erik Murray, Mark Pearman, Steve Souza, and Gary Weigel. Robin Newcombe was crowned May Queen. Mark Pearman was chosen Most Outstanding Boy.

Rings and Special Wishes

Below: Cory Wilson and date Gayle Kassan, have their rings turned by Miss Turner after passing over the bridge.

Anticipation of receiving their long-awaited class rings was felt by the juniors as they arrived with their dates at the Lake Wright Motel for the 1978 Junior Ring Dance. Musical strains of "Skylight" enticed couples into the dim candle-lit interior. James Taylor's, "The Secret of Life" was the theme. Couples danced continuously from eight until ten-fifteen p.m. when the ring ceremony began.

Each couple was announced by assistant principals Mr. Shackleford and Mr. Robbins and received their date's ring. On a white bridge in the soft glow of a spot light, each couple exchanged rings. Each ring was turned once toward the outer finger and accompanied with a special wish for good luck.

Anything Goes

The Thespians presented Cole Porter's Anything Goes, the first musical to be staged at Princess Anne in eight years, on April 28, 29, and 30. The play starred Marian Eller as Reno Sweeny and Jeff Painter as Billy Crocker. Joy Garrison, Ken Busik, Liz Hughes, George Taylor, Dede Sellers, and David Schaffer also had major rolls.

The storyline revolved around a group of people including a nightclub singer, an alcoholic businessman, a public enemy and a rich widow and their wild experiences while on a voyage to London. The play, a comedy, was well-received according to Joe Burnsworth, drama instructor. The Thespians plan to make a musical production an annual event.

A New Tradition

Jenny Baldwin, Princess Anne's first Sweetheart Queen, is congratulated by Denise Genovese and Missy Eger.

Last year the SCA replaced the traditional Candy Cane Ball to honor outstanding senior girls with the Snowball Dance. The Snowball Dance was then replaced by the Sweetheart Dance this year.

Twelve senior girls were chosen by the faculty as the Sweetheart Court. They were honored by the SCA and given the "royal treatment" the entire week of February 12-16. Then, on Friday night, February 16, the SCA and the senior class combined their efforts and began a new tradition — the Sweetheart Dance.

Miss Jenny Baldwin was chosen by those who attended the dance as Princess Anne's first Sweetheart Queen. Jenny's many activities during her senior year included being Keyette president and senior class treasurer.

Football Jerseys never looked better than on Tuesday, November 7. Broad shoulders and bulging bicepts were replaced by rounder shapes and bobbing ponytails. This was the day of the Junior versus Senior Powder-puff game. Both teams — the Seniors coached by Mr. Pursell and the Juniors coached by Mr. McCrory and Mr. Beskin — had spent many Sunday afternoons at hard practice preparing for the big event.

Finally at 7:30 on Tuesday night, the long-awaited game was played. The anxious players exhibited much enthusiasm and skill throughout the game. The final play was completed leaving the Juniors victorious with a score of 8-0. The lone touchdown was a Kim Milner to Cindy Reckling pass. A two-point safety was made by Marion Slaughter.

Outstanding offensive players for the night were junior Kim Milner and senior Jan Brown. Defensive players who proved to be outstanding included senior Kathy Birsh and junior Marion Slaughter.

The Juniors won the actual game, but as Mr. McCrory put it, "In Powderpuff EVERYONE is a winner!"

It Takes Poise, Personality, And Talent

The Miss Princess Anne contestants include: Tammy Moon, Jan Zartman, Karen Wright, Eleta Milner, Cindy Miller, Debbie Bizub, Robin Ray, Lisa Wicker, Cindy Briggs, Dona Gibboney, Kim Arris, Louisa Gerard.

The Miss Princess Anne Pageant is an annual event sponsored by the Keyettes. "Flying High" was the theme of the 1979 pageant which was held on March 24 in the auditorium. Gayle Rose, Miss Princess Anne 1978, returned to crown her successor.

Tammy Moon, a junior, was crowned Miss Princess Anne 1979. She played the piano in the talent competition. She was chosen on the basis of her appearance, poise, personality, and talent. Runners-up were Robin Ray, Kim Arris, Karen Wright, and Dona Gibboney.

What did a high-rise penthouse, a shortage of writing utensils, and an artificial fruit manufacturing company have in common? Answer: The International Thespians' fine production, "Come Blow Your Horn."

The three-act Neil Simon comedy was produced on November 17 and 18. The play revolved around two brothers, Alan and Buddy Baker, portrayed by Jim Meehan and Allen Webb. The setting was in Alan Baker's bachelor apartment in New York City.

Buddy, the younger brother, was a young man who was naive and very insecure. He moved in with his brother Alan, who was the exact opposite. They were fired from their jobs by their father, and their mother moved in to live with them. In the end, a classical change of character set a fast pace that ended with Alan's marriage, and Buddy's lovelife that suddenly blossomed.

Other cast members were Mrs. Baker, Alison Stern; Mr. Baker, Chris Bush; Connie, Dona Gibboney; Peggy, Karen Wright.

Students were recognized for their achievements whether they were in academics, sports, or community activities. This year Princess Anne was proud to boast a Norwegian Lady, two National Merit Finalists, a golfer of the year, and state organizations officers. Eleven upcoming Seniors were sent to week-long, all-expense-paid state conferences. Academically gifted students were selected to attend Governor's school during the summer. Math scholars were appointed to the school's Math team. The accomplishments of these students surely gave Princess Anne reason to be proud.

Right: Marian Eller was chosen as "Norwegian Lady" representing Virginia Beach in her sister city, Moss, Norway. Anne Kaiser, representing P.A., was one of six high school princesses in the Neptune Festival.

Debbie Bizub was given an Outstanding Sophomore Award by the Hugh O'Brien Foundation. Senior Marian Eller received the DAR Good Citizen Award.

Three students were elected to hold state offices in certain organizations. Mark Fields was elected ASIA State Reporter. Gene Westbrook was elected State Thespian President, and Kim Cox, not pictured, was elected Projects Coordinator for VSCA.

Alison Stern and Bruce Jones were National Merit Finalists.

Carol Burge Selected Miss Peerage

Carol Burge, Miss Peerage 1978-79.

Total dedication to bettering her school and community earned Carol Burge the honor of Miss Peerage 1978-79.

Carol was involved in extra curricular activities all three years while maintaining a high grade point average in superior level classes.

Carol's senior year had to be the most demanding and most gratifying of the three. She had the gargantuan jobs of Senior Class President and Co-Editor-in-Chief of the yearbook. Either was enough to keep all of one's waking hours busy, but Carol did both with style. She still found time to work as Managing Editor of The Page and to be active in Keyettes and several other clubs.

There were no details too small for Carol's attention whether it was a donut sale, the roof painting, or doing tedious format work on The Peerage.

Front: Carol Burge, Marian Eller, Beth Wallace.
Back: Cindy Champage, Dorcas Asercion, Melissa Campbell, Leanne Self, Tammie Blazek, Janie Johnson. These girls were nominated by the Senior English and government teachers to vie for the honor of Miss Peerage.

Below: Jim proposes a toast in Come Blow Your Horn.

An almost equal involvement in drama and student government have earned Jim Meehan the honor of Mr. Page.

Jim has appeared in every major drama production during his three years at P.A. This year he had one of the lead roles in Come Blow Your Horn and appeared in Mash. Jim was president of the International Thespian Society this year.

During his junior year, Jim attended Boy's State and this year served as Vice-president of SCA.

Jim was selected Most Talented Senior Boy by his classmates. The English and government teachers felt that he was a natural for Mr. Page.

NJROTC Crowns Queen

Sunday, March 4 was the date of the 1979 NJROTC Military Ball. The Ball, an annual formal affair, was held at the Chief Petty Officer's Club at Little Creek. Approximately 375 NJROTC cadets and their dates from the six Virginia Beach high school NJROTC units were present, and six Military Ball Queens were chosen. Lori Williams was named the queen for Princess Anne. Her escort was Ensign Roy Schumpert. The U.S. Navy Show Band offered the evening's entertainment.

On the night of January 27, the Thespians once again held their annual talent show. The auditorium was filled with parents and students who anticipated a night of fun and excitement. The students who participated in the show gave them just that. Acts ranging from classical ballet to rock music were presented and enthusiastically received. By sheer coincidence, however, all winning performances were given by pianists. Scott Sward, Kim Arris, and Gary Forney placed first, second, and third, respectively.

We were the ones who drove to school in cars bearing Senior bumper stickers, had our own lockers, wrote term papers, struggled with advanced courses, celebrated eighteenth birthdays, gave the underclassmen a hard time, and awaited graduation.

After completing eleven years of school we deserved this. Wasn't it what we had worked for? Nineteen seventy-nine was "our year," and we lived it to its fullest. We made the most of our final year of high school. We were the seniors — the Class of '79.

Nineteen hundred and seventy-nine — the year of the seniors. The class of '79 proudly returned in September for their final year of high school making the fact that they were finally seniors clearly known. Beginning with the painting of the class symbol on the gym roof in August and ending with the long awaited Senior Prom in June, the 1978-79 school year was one which will be long-cherished by every senior. Even frequent activities such as pizza parties, morning doughnut sales, and dances will be remembered.

As graduation approaches seniors slowly realize that their year is almost over. Summer, college, and careers loom ahead in the near future; but enthusiastic seniors will face these new experiences with an eager and undying determination.

When arriving at Princess Anne High School one can't help but see the multicolored emblem painted on the gym roof. Originating in 1973, roof painting has gone from a simple design with the class year to elaborate and well-planned symbols and mottos. This year's class of 79's symbol depicts two hands reaching for a ball of light with the motto "Within Our Grasp" on a scroll beneath the emblem. The symbol and motto was chosen in January of the class's junior year. More than thirty gallons of paint were used in completing the roof costing the class approximately three-hundred dollars.

The process of putting the symbol onto the roof was an involved one. Fifteen gallons of black paint were used to black out the previous class's symbol. A graph was then drawn on the roof in white paint corresponding to one drawn over the original design, then the symbol was painstakingly sketched on the roof. The coloring of the rays and the shading of the hands followed. Although a great deal of work was involved, painting the roof was fun. It took some people a few days to get used to the height and slope of the roof, and several pairs of clothing were literally ruined due to a slip and fall in wet paint.

After three weeks of "back-breaking labor" the symbol was finished. On September 4 the gym roof bore the completed symbol of the class of '79.

Tim Harkey, Lisa Yancey, Missy Eger, Alan Jones, and George Davis were among the seniors who showed their artistic talents by helping to paint the symbol on the roof.

"Within Our Grasp" — the motto of the class of '79. It was seen printed on the Senior Buttons, which every spirited Senior had almost permanently fastened to his shirt; on decorated cakes, and printed in bold letters under the class symbol on the gym roof. But what did it mean? Several seniors gave their interpretations of the slogan when asked, "What does 'Within Our Grasp' mean to you?"

"The future and all our goals are not beyond our reach. We, the seniors, have reached a point in our lives where nothing seems to be totally impossible. Most of our objectives are there for us to grab and take hold of. It is now our duty to try to achieve what we have set as our goals.

— Dorcas Asercion

"To me 'Within Our Grasp' means having the opportunity to reach our goals no matter who we are. There is not a thing we can't do, and that makes the class of '79 the greatest!"

— Sean O'Leary

'Within Our Grasp' means that somehow my family and I are going to reach out and pull back a handful of money to send me to a decent college like Harvard, Yale or MIT."

— Mickey Kosloski

" . . . It's the future. I can do anything or be anything I want. I can be a lawyer, a doctor, or even a garbage collector if that's what makes me happy. With determination and hard work, I decide my own future."

— Terry Moran

"'Within Our Grasp' means that our future life is right before us and if we strive for perfection, it is always within our realm of reality."

— Jackie Dudley

"We, the hoods of the school, find the following items 'Within Our Grasp': calculators, wallets, purses, books, lunchboxes."

All You Can Eat

Several years ago, after much soul-searching, an idea for fund-raising was finally found that was not only financially successful, but was also a lot of fun for everyone involved — the pizza party! Pizza parties have now become annual events for sophomores, juniors, and SENIORS! The class of '79 held its first pizza party on October 30, and everyone who attended had a good time laughing, joking, and eating a lot of pizza. Stomach aches didn't last very long though, and soon everyone was looking forward to the next fantastic senior pizza party.

Kisses!?

Multi-colored Senior buttons were a passport to many special events during Senior Week this year.

Senior students proudly displayed their buttons and used them for a free breakfast, kisses (chocolate ones!) in the kissing booth, a reserved section in the lunchroom, and access to the refreshments that were served during the dance on Senior Night.

The bright colored buttons displayed the artistic class symbol, along with the class motto, "Within Our Grasp," which had its own special meaning for each senior student.

Like class rings, senior buttons let everyone know who was a member of the Class of '79.

One of the many buttons sold is shown off by a proud senior.

As the seniors watched the hundreds of colored balloons float into the black evening sky, their thoughts were of the time when they, too, would soon be released out into the world.

Senior night at P.A. was held on November 3. Seniors wearing their senior buttons cheered in the stands reserved especially for them. Confetti and streamers were thrown as the Cavaliers defeated the Bayside Marlins 38-6.

During halftime the band and drill team introduced their seniors. Senior club leaders were also introduced at that time.

Students wearing their buttons during the dance that night could also attend the reception that was held for the seniors. Live entertainment and plenty of refreshments were provided.

Stephanne Caverly and Kathleen Enoch are active fans at the game on senior night.

Easy Enough?

With all of the recent public discussion of graduating students passing competency tests and having a minimum of a ninth grade reading level you would think that seniors would have been able to fill out the forms for ordering their graduation announcements. Not so.

Ordering packets were passed out to English classes in late November for seniors to take home and fill out. The majority of students returned with empty forms. Unable to fill them out, the forms were not completed until students reached the window of the ticket booth on ordering day after standing in what seemed to be an endless line.

The long-awaited graduation announcements arrived in May bringing the date for the anticipated graduation ceremony even closer.

Senior Sharon Abdennour ask's the Herff-Jones representative for help in ordering her announcements.

"I can't wait until I graduate . . ." This was in the mind of nearly every senior at some point during the school year. It hit some students on September 6 when they realized that summer was really over and it was the second day of yet another school year. Others didn't get the feeling until the night before they had their first lab for physics due or until they were up through the wee hours of the morning typing their term papers. The thought became more common when graduation announcements and caps and gowns were ordered. As prom plans were deliberated and students began arranging dates for the unforgettable night, the feeling became more prominent. Finding out of acceptances at the colleges of their choice increased the anticipating even more. When weather forecasts grew brighter, and it became evident that summer was coming the feeling was widely accepted.

It wasn't that we wanted to rush through our senior year, after all, it was what we had been looking forward to since we began school. It was just that now that we were seniors we had a new goal in sight, something else to anticipate — jobs, college, new friends, different living quarters, later hours, and FREEDOM. Graduation marked the end of our present lifestyle and the beginning of another!

Concerned Counselors

Counselors played important roles in the lives of most seniors. They were constantly helping seniors choose which colleges to apply for and encouraging them to look into scholarships. Once in a while they even offered a friendly nudge in the right direction by suggesting that a few seniors bring up their grades so that they would be eligible for graduation in June. Catalogs and pamphlets on various colleges and occupations were available to interested seniors. Counselors were concerned that graduating seniors performed well in their last year of high school. They cared enough to see that the students would be headed in the right direction after they graduated, and because of this many seniors grew fond of their counselors.

Inflation hit Princess Anne High School! Because of a need for more money to pay for lunches, new clothes, school fees and activities, students found it necessary to look for employment. Of the 1,930 students enrolled, 430 took after-school jobs. That was approximately 22 percent!

Most of the students who had jobs were juniors or seniors who paid for class rings, graduation announcements, and the like. These students found that to pay the expenses of school and also have a social life required at least a small paycheck. Mom and Dad wouldn't pay for everything.

Having a job wasn't that bad, however. Most students enjoyed working. A job gave students a sense of responsibility, experience for later employment, and a way to meet new and interesting people. And of course, if nothing else, payday always brightened up a student's week!

Ann Wilkenson, Peggy Elliott, Loretta Young, and Cindy Miller gain experience for office jobs.

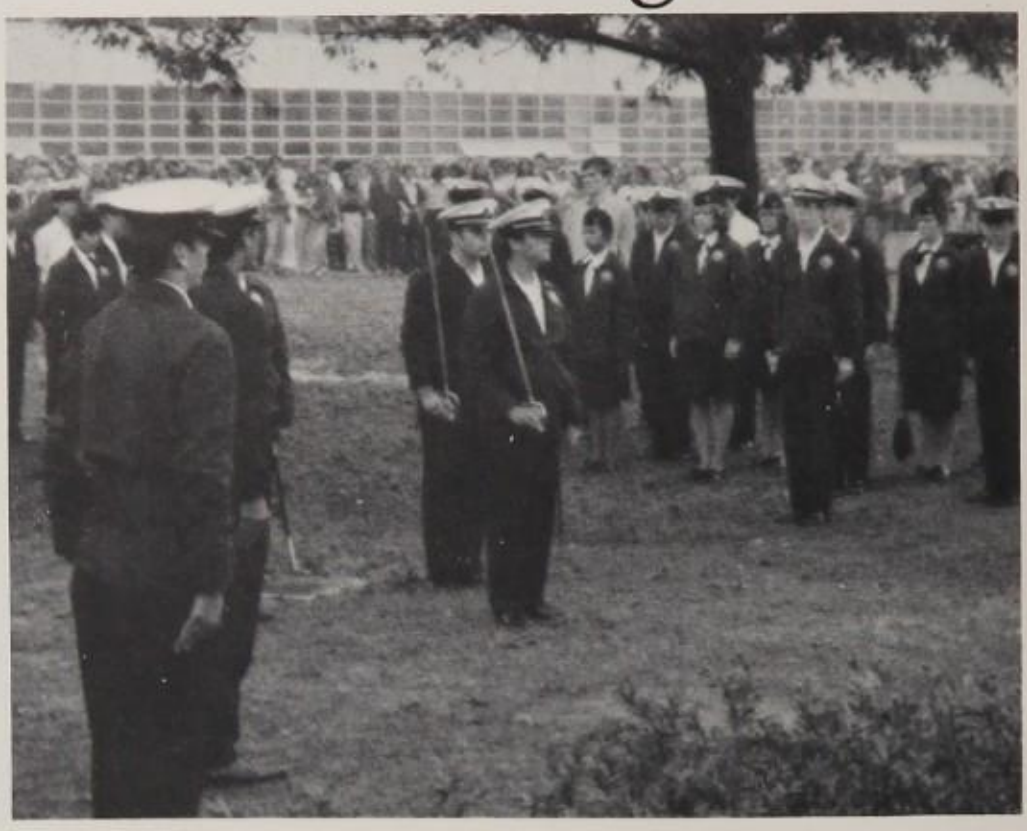
Band members were not known just for their excellent field shows or superb concerts. They were also recognized as being active participants in fund-raising activities. They spent many long hours working to raise money for instruments, uniforms, and guard and video equipment. Their endeavors included monthly paper drives, raffles, hoagie sales, and the annual Christmas tree sale.

The trees were purchased earlier in the year from a dealer in Canada. They arrived on December 2 and were staked on the front grounds of the school by eager band members. Sales began on the fourth and continued until the twenty-third when nearly every tree had been sold. Prices ranged from ten to twenty-five dollars per tree depending on the height and type of tree. Once again the tree sale was successful. Not breaking tradition, it ranked second to the monthly paper drives as a money-making activity.

Cathy Deeds deliberates over purchasing a tree shown to her by Linda Buza. Fred Barham stands by to take her money and carry the tree to her car.

A Promising Career

The NJROTC Program offered students the unique experience of belonging to an organization while obtaining credit in an elective subject. In the framework of a military organization, this Navy-sponsored program provided a wide range of extracurricular activities (rifle team, drill team, color guard, marching unit) under the sponsorship of retired naval officers. Additionally, the NJROTC cadets were afforded an opportunity to visit and experience firsthand the operations and administration of the various units and ships of our sea-going forces.



Members of the NJROTC perform in the flag raising ceremony for the entire student body in honor of the Navy's 203rd Birthday.

What do seniors plan on doing after college?

JIM MEEHAN: "I'm going off to India to search for the secrets of life. Either that or go to college."

SHARON ABDENNOUR: "Going to college, I guess. James Madison, hopefully!"

MAE CIPOLLA: "I have no idea what I'm going to do after I graduate. I guess I'll just live life to its fullest!"

ERIK SPEER: "I'm going to go to UVA next year and work during the summer."

CAROL BURGE: "I'm going into hibernation for a few years and then emerging to write a best seller."

DOUG FARINO: "Attending a major university and going to a dental school."

BETH WALLACE: "I'm going to go to college, study journalism, graduate with honors, write a pulitzer prize-winning novel, and then sit back and count my money."

JOHN KINGRY: "I'm going to go to UVA and start to study to be a doctor."

The 1979 graduation cap and diploma will soon become treasured items of each graduating senior.

Jimmy Swallow, Beth Wallace, Veronica Leitner, and Terry Moran dance to the music of Skylight, the first band of the year, at the Homecoming Dance.

All home football games had one thing in common — a victory dance. The dances gave students a place to go where they could meet with friends and have a good time but not spend a lot of money. Most dances had good attendance; however, the most popular dance was definitely the Homecoming Dance sponsored by the SCA which featured the first live band of the year. At the rest of the dances, finances made having a band impossible. Ron Hazelwood, a local disc jockey, provided his own brand of music complete with his weird light show at most of these dances.

Pies

Seniors once again proved themselves as winners when the five senior class officers emerged victorious from the senior-sponsored pie eating contest. As a part of Senior Week, senior, junior, and sophomore class officers represented their classes during the lunch-time competition on Friday, November 3. The contest took part in five heats with the officers of the same office competing against each other. Chocolate and vanilla creme pies were supplied compliments of the senior officers. Raincoats, showercaps, and plastic bags were donned to help protect clothing and hair, and then faces plunged into pies in search of a hidden piece of bubble gum. The object of the contest was to be the first to find his piece of gum and to blow a bubble. Although some underclass officers did have a bit of trouble locating the gum hidden in their pies, their continued searching with help from those not in the contest added a special humor to the activity.

Senior Class President, Carol Burge, takes a breather from hunting for the hidden gum as her sister, Laurie, president of the junior class, continues her search.

Vote!

John Warner defeated Andrew Miller by a larger margin in the PA student Senatorial elections than the state elections held in November.

Senior Government students voted on all issues, using voting booths to tally up the scores.

The experience of participating in the mock election gave students an opportunity to see the whole election process in action. Issues were weighed and discussed in class, and many of the students used the voting booth for the first time.

Seniors voted to repeal the Blue Law, while Virginia Beach voters favored retention. Seniors also voted to allow pari-mutual betting, but Virginia voted no. However, Seniors did pick the winning candidate for Senator.

Senior government students study the issues.

Class sponsors Mrs. Walton and Mrs. Lee have worked long and hard with the Class of '79 for three busy years.

Endless hours behind the scenes helped to bring us the Prom, senior and Sadie Hawkins dances, donut sales, the ordering of graduation announcements and cap and gowns, senior buttons, mugs, and bumper stickers, and countless other items and events that helped to make our senior year a memorable one.

The progress of roof painting was carefully supervised by both. The completion of the symbol on the gym roof symbolized to these dedicated women that a busy senior year had just begun.

With Mrs. Lee's complete and efficient organization and the money being closely accounted for by Mrs. Walton, the Class of '79 was definitely in good hands.

Outside in the quiet night, the faint sound of waves washing up on a nearby beachfront were audible. The darkened sky was illuminated by myriads of winking stars. Aged lamp lights shed a yellowish glow on brick walkways which led up the hill to a large, restored building. Through its immense, paned windows it was visable that a special activity was in progress. Elegantly dressed seniors and their special dates danced in the well-known sunken ballroom of the Old Cavalier. The soft murmur of laughter and the mixed voices of excited seniors echoed outside into the warm spring night. Musical strains by the band Homecookin' lured seniors away from the picturesque scene out doors and indoors to what was their last social function as a class. This was the 1979 Senior Prom.

The aged beauty of the Old Cavalier was the setting for the 1979 Senior Prom.

Where?

Being a senior included a responsibility that most seniors took for granted. After spending the most recent of their educational years at Princess Anne, seniors came to know the school and its surroundings like they knew their way to Pizza Inn on Friday nights after football games.

Seniors were unofficially delegated the job of directing underclassmen to their classes. Was it the look of knowledge on their faces, or the sense of "seniority" about them that led underclassmen to approach them and shyly ask to be shown the way to a bathroom or the clinic. The rare days on which students were told to report to their homerooms created tremendous problems. Some concerned seniors, knowing that a large number of sophomores and juniors would not know the locations of their homerooms, purposely made themselves available after the tardy bell rang to offer directions.

Being a senior wasn't all a bed of roses — it did have its responsibilities.

Senior Susan Steffe reflects on twenty-five years of P.A. tradition with sophomore Bo Ennis.

As we, the seniors of Princess Anne High School, reflect upon our last year of school, we are reminded not only of the events such as games, dances, and plays, but of the special moments that added spice to our lives. We remember the thrill we felt watching our senior class float pass by the crowds at Homecoming. We remember the tinge of sorrow we felt on Senior Night as we realized we were watching the last football game of our high school careers.

The happiness, relief, and sheer ecstasy felt after handing in our senior term papers would not be soon forgotten; nor would we forget the joy of finally receiving our graduation announcements. The special moments with our date at the prom were to be forever etched upon our minds; however, the most precious memory we will reflect upon in later years will surely be receiving our diploma on graduation day.

Mash Swamps P.A.

Right: The Bonwit sisters, Tracy Riordan, Eleta Milner, and Deannie Bishop, perform an excellent tap dance to entertain the troops. Below: George Taylor as Duke, Chris Bush as Hawkeye, and Allison Parker as Hotlips Houlihan discuss the problems at the 4077th.

M*A*S*H, presented February 23 and 24 by the Senior Class, was a great success. The two act play centered around the comically touching lives of the 4077th Mobile Army Surgical Hospital. A major part of the play was spent in trying to find various ways of raising enough money to send a young Korean boy to the U.S. for an education.

The comedy was skillfully directed by Senior, Alison Stern. She, along with the talented cast, worked many long hours in order to present a top quality production. For the first time in many years, the Senior play made money instead of taking a loss. The profits made from the play were used to award scholarships to deserving seniors.

Top: David Harrel, Tom Lopez, Sharon Sykes, Dona Gibboney, Louisa Gerard, Jim Meehan, Mae Cipolla, Jimmy Swallow, Allison Parker, Allen Jones, and Barry Fizer crowd around Ken Busick as he reads a final note from Hawkeye and Duke.

Practicing . . . and more practicing. This was the focal point of those devoted students who deemed themselves athletes. Perfection . . . and winning, demanded that they give up other things such as jobs, desserts, going home at two, and free time. Donning shoulder pads to drill with the blocks; reaching for layups over and over again; urging their limbs to execute movements with a smooth gracefulness and ease; pushing themselves for a better time . . . those athletes demanded complete control of their bodies.

Sports offered an opportunity for both the athlete and the fans to express themselves. It was a diversion from daily school pressure.

Right: Scott Mansfield, Jay Seacrist, Steve Grant, and Geno Carballo watch the action intently.
Below: Brian Allard prepares to hand-off the ball.

Despite injuries to backs, the 1978-79 Cavalier football team ended the season with a 6-1-3 record. P.A. got off to a slow start with the first three games ending in ties. The Cavaliers then went on to win six of their games and capture second place in the Beach District.

"These boys were a pleasure to coach; they had a good attitude toward the game, and although we were disappointed with the ties, the team was successful overall," Coach Ralph Gahagan commented.

Brian Allard, the Cavalier quarterback remarked that the coaches did a great job, and although the ties were disappointing the team did very well.

Outstanding players this year were great in number according to Coach Gahagan, and they brought a winning season. Brian Allard and Jimmy Funaro dominated the backfield, while Mike Corprew, Steve Souza, Olan Toby, Doug Luther, Kevin Haxter, and Kevin O'Brien held the line.

"These were not the only outstanding players," Coach Gahagan said. "It takes a team to win, not just one man."

When asked about the prospects for next year, Gahagan said, "I don't think the team will be quite as strong, but they will be competitive."

Player Mark Pearman, on the other hand, said, "We'll surprise a lot of people next year!"

Despite a disappointing season this year, the Field Hockey team was optimistic. "We're a young team, only three seniors were on varsity," junior Barbara Deeds said.

"It was a rebuilding year, and the record did not reflect the talent and strength of the team," Coach Vicki Ervin commented. "While all of the girls played well, Liz Baldwin was an outstanding player all-around, and Cindy Reckling and Tammie Blazek played exceptional defense."

With this type of talent returning, the Lady Cavaliers hope to have a better season next year.

Tennis Team Gathers Strength

Tennis came in the fall this year! The girls finished their season with a 4-6 record. Kempsville gave the players their toughest competition, according to Coach Carol Futral.

"Although all the team members did a great job, Sally Ziegelbein and Beverly Benjumea were selected as outstanding players," Coach Futral commented.

"I had a good group to work with, and we hope to have a stronger team next year with several returning players."

The power and determination that are essential to a good tennis player are shown on the face of Tricia Hereford.

Team Suffers Downfall

The Cavaliers enjoyed a reputation as an outstanding team this year, entering the season with a streak of eight wins. Coach Anthony's "four corners" technique became famous again this year as the team got back on its feet after a rebuilding period last year.

The loss of Brian Allard at mid-season may have explained the sudden downfall the Cavaliers took despite the outstanding efforts of Geno Carballo, Brett Williams, Mark Pearman, David Moyer, and Thad Miles. Miles, a sophomore, was undoubtedly the brightest hope for the team.

Perhaps the highlight of the season was winning the Norfolk Collegiate Tipoff tournament held in December. The season was exciting for spectators as well as players; many of the Cavalier's games were won with seconds left on the clock.

Juniors Dominate Court Action

Patterned offenses and defenses run by Co-captains Janie Johnson and Esther Hamberry were initiated this year by Coach Dennis Nixon. Nixon returned to coaching the girls' team after a three year period when he coached other sports.

Coach Nixon commented that the girls worked hard and played together as a team. "I attribute our success to that hard work," Nixon said.

Another reason for a good season this year was the sophomore strength on the bench according to Nixon. "We had a better season than was expected by everyone."

Nine players will return next year. They include Renee Garvish, Tammy Goetz, Esther Hamberry, Fatima James, Bonnie Klucz, Moe McAdams, Amber McManus, Kim Milner, and Julie Spurgeon.

Outstanding players this year included Esther Hamberry, Tammy Goetz, Janie Johnson, and Fatima James. Hamberry averaged 10.7 points per game to lead in that area. Janie Johnson led in rebounds with eleven per game.

It was a frustrating season with only one win and three brutal losses according to Coach Tom Kwiatkowski. He coached the hardworking team of ten boys and one girl.

The Most Outstanding Runner was Billy Thames who placed fourth in the District Meet and fifteenth in Regional Meet. Jeff Clemens was the Most Improved Runner.

Seniors Strengthen Team

Billy Thames accepts an award from Coach Kwiatkowski for his outstanding track performance.

"I don't feel that I will ever see a finer or more talented group of seniors than I have had this year," Coach Tom Kwiatkowski commented when asked about his Indoor Track Team.

Four of these young men had state qualifying records early in the season. They included Joel Souza for the long jump; Kevin Haxter in the pole vault; Johnny Mitchell and William Freeman with their 60 yard dash times. The 880 yard relay team also qualified.

All meets were held at Rockwell Hall, Little Creek this year. Mike Corprew expressed his liking for Rockwell, "It is an advantage to our runners; we are used to the floor." Coach Kwiatkowski, on the other hand, said that he hopes to see the equipment improved at Rockwell.

The Quality Counts

Only six girls made up the gymnastics team this year. When asked why the team was so small, Coach Futral said that it was not that many girls did not try out, but that the caliber of performance was high, and many dropped out.

There were some advantages to having a small team. One of them was that the coach was able to give more individual attention to each girl.

The major disadvantage was that the small team faced injuries. Had anyone been injured, there might not have been enough girls for an event.

Maura Callan and Collen Cloughley participated in the beam and floor exercises. Katie Hess, Valerie Willson, Diane Givens, and Therese Van Petten participated in the all-around competition.

Since their two second place finishers in state competition in 1976, Princess Anne Wrestlers have been faced with losing seasons. This year was no exception; however, Coach Davis had some bright spots in the 1978-79 season that he hopes will foretell good things for next year.

With thirteen sophomores who gained experience and poise on the team, Coach Davis expects the team to be much improved next year. Sophomores Mike Scarpulla, David Creasy, and Ray White wrestled varsity. Other promising sophomores were Louis Mungin and David Vann.

Scott Mansfield, wrestling in the 132 weight class, was ranked second in the district behind Bayside wrestler David Casher. "Seniors Ken Morioni and Ant South were valuable team members," Coach Davis said.

Many of the losses were close ones which gave Davis and his young squad hopes for the 1979-80 season.

"Beating Bayside, the state champions, was the high point of our second softball season," Coach Pursell commented, "and we did it twice!"

The season ended with a four won, six lost record. "We should have won more," Pursell stated; "we were competitive in every game."

Those girls who participated in softball practiced every day from 2:00 until 4:30 during the season. A good aim, good eye, being able to run fast, and being able to hit were necessities. "Experience, attitude, and a knowledge of the game and its rules also help," Pursell added.

Benjumea and tennis. The names have been synonymous since the early 70's, and this year was no exception. Tony Benjumea (12-3) led the boys' team to an 11-4 record. At the same time his sister, Beverly, was named "Most Improved Player" by Coach Jenny Turner.

Though the girls' team had a disappointing record of four wins and nine loses Coach Turner commented, "Each girl was valuable to the team in her own way. Although our record was not what we had hoped for, we enjoyed the teamwork and experience."

Coach Wheeler advanced three men to the district tournament. Ackaway lost in the second round to Hern of Kempsville; Thone lost in the second round to How of Cox; Torbet-Heishman lost in the second round to Crocker-Burns of First Colonial; and Ackaway-Thone lost in the semi-finals to How-Rodriquez of Cox.

Both of P.A. s soccer teams suffered through long and frustrating seasons last year. Coach Bruce Frye felt that his boys' team played good, defensive games throughout the season but were unable to score enough goals to pull out wins. However, during the season, many outstanding team members surfaced. Greg Ahles made All-District as best defensive player. Steve Seymour and Tom Dinardo also made All-District on the second team. Mike Ownby and Greg Plummer contributed greatly to the team effort.

Coach Vicki Ervin, of the girls' team, attributed their disappointing season to the fact that they had to go into a great deal of overtime. Tina Riccio was the most outstanding defensive player on the team, and Wanda Ward was the most outstanding offensive player. The games were tough, but there were a few moral victories such as the goal scored against Kempsville, according to Coach Ervin.

Within our mild-mannered little school, there lurked the strong and steady power of the Cavalier golf team. Once out of the classroom, this handful of P.A. students became the aggressive and winning golfers that we have all come to know.

No other high school in Virginia may claim the state title; P.A.'s team, coached by Leo Anthony, is number one!

George MacDonald held the number one team position for the season and placed third in the state. Alan King, the number two man on the team, tied for ninth in the state tournament. Brad Hopkins tied for seventh in the state.

At the end of last year's regular season, the golfers had won 67 matches in succession.

Look Out For Number One!

Waiting for and dreaming of the day they will become seniors could be frustrating for underclassmen. After all, they now only had one or two years left until they'd reach their long awaited goal — graduation. To make the most of it, most sophomores and juniors became involved in school and class activities. They made their high school years fun-filled and productive; however, the fact remained that their greatest fantasy was to be seniors!

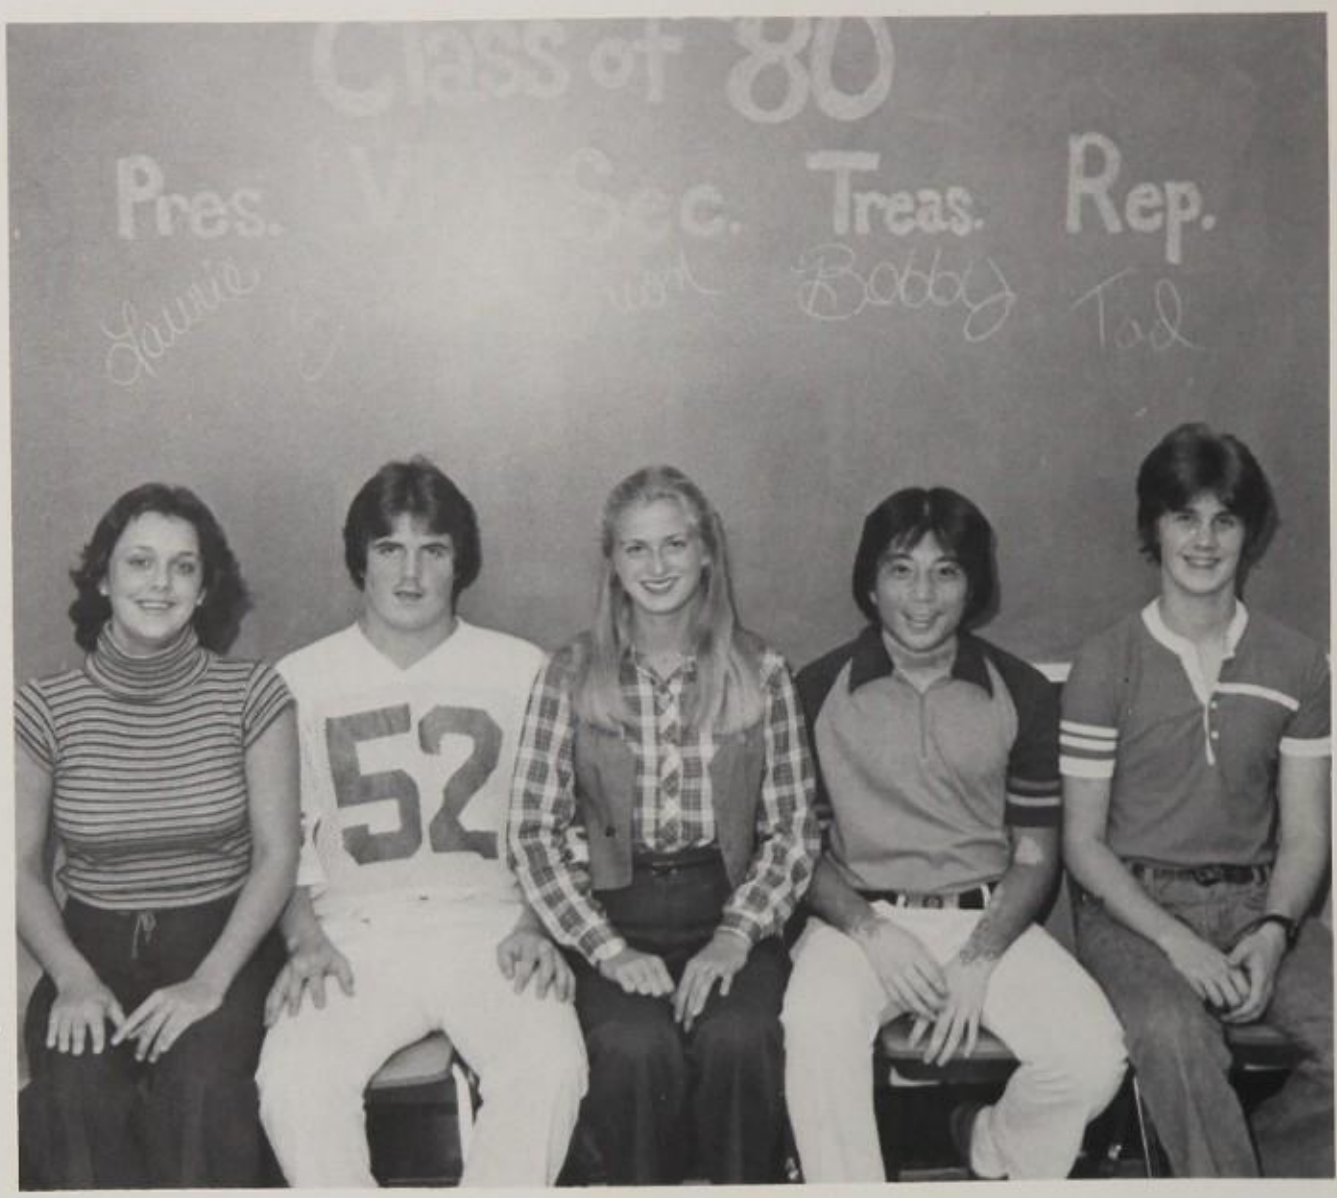
The First Of Their Decade

The Class of '80, with four new officers and returning secretary Marion Slaughter, have worked enthusiastically together to become a strong and spirited class. They combined their energies in money-making projects and other class events to make their junior year a successful one. The juniors continued the highly profitable Christmas plaque sale they originated in their sophomore year, and held an annual pizza party. The highlight of the year was the Junior Ring Dance.



This year the junior class was lead by five very dedicated and hardworking students — President, Laurie Burge; Vice President, Erik Murray; Secretary, Marion Slaughter; Treasurer, Bobby Ordonio; Reporter, Tad Pethybridge.

Juniors Give Support

Friday, October 6 — 7:30 p.m. Kickoff time for the P.A. vs. Norview game. And so began another routine football game. Well — not exactly. That night was an exception to the compulsory happenings at a game. In the stands on the 50 yard line strange things were taking place. Flash cards were flashing, wooden blocks were knocking, and cow bells were ringing, but most noticeable was the screaming crowd! Directly beneath the press box a sizeable conglomeration of members of the Class of'80 were making their presence known and giving the cheerleaders a helping hand. The fence around the field, stuffed with newspaper, proclaimed "Juniors #1". Balloons and streamers surrounded the banner on the press box that read "Yes — here we are — The Mighty Juniors!"

Although the game was P.A.'s only defeat of the season, the rowdie bunch wasn't disheartened. This went to show that win or lose, the juniors never hesitated to support P.A. all the way!

By the end of junior night the juniors had finally learned to spell.

Turn It 80 Times!

Perhaps the event looked forward to most in a student's junior year was the choosing, ordering, and receiving of his class ring. A ring was a special proclamation of achievment and inspiration for the coming senior year in high school.

Early in the year, on September 26, the representative from the Herff-Jones ring company displayed the vast variety of rings available and explained the ordering procedure. Ring orders were taken in the ticket booth before and after school and during lunch.

During these days, classrooms buzzed with conversations about stone types, cuts, and the like. Many students were more puzzled about ring forms than homework!

The wait between ordering rings in the fall and receiving them in the spring seemed harder than waiting for summer vacation!

Debbie Brown has her finger size measured to ensure proper fit of her class ring.

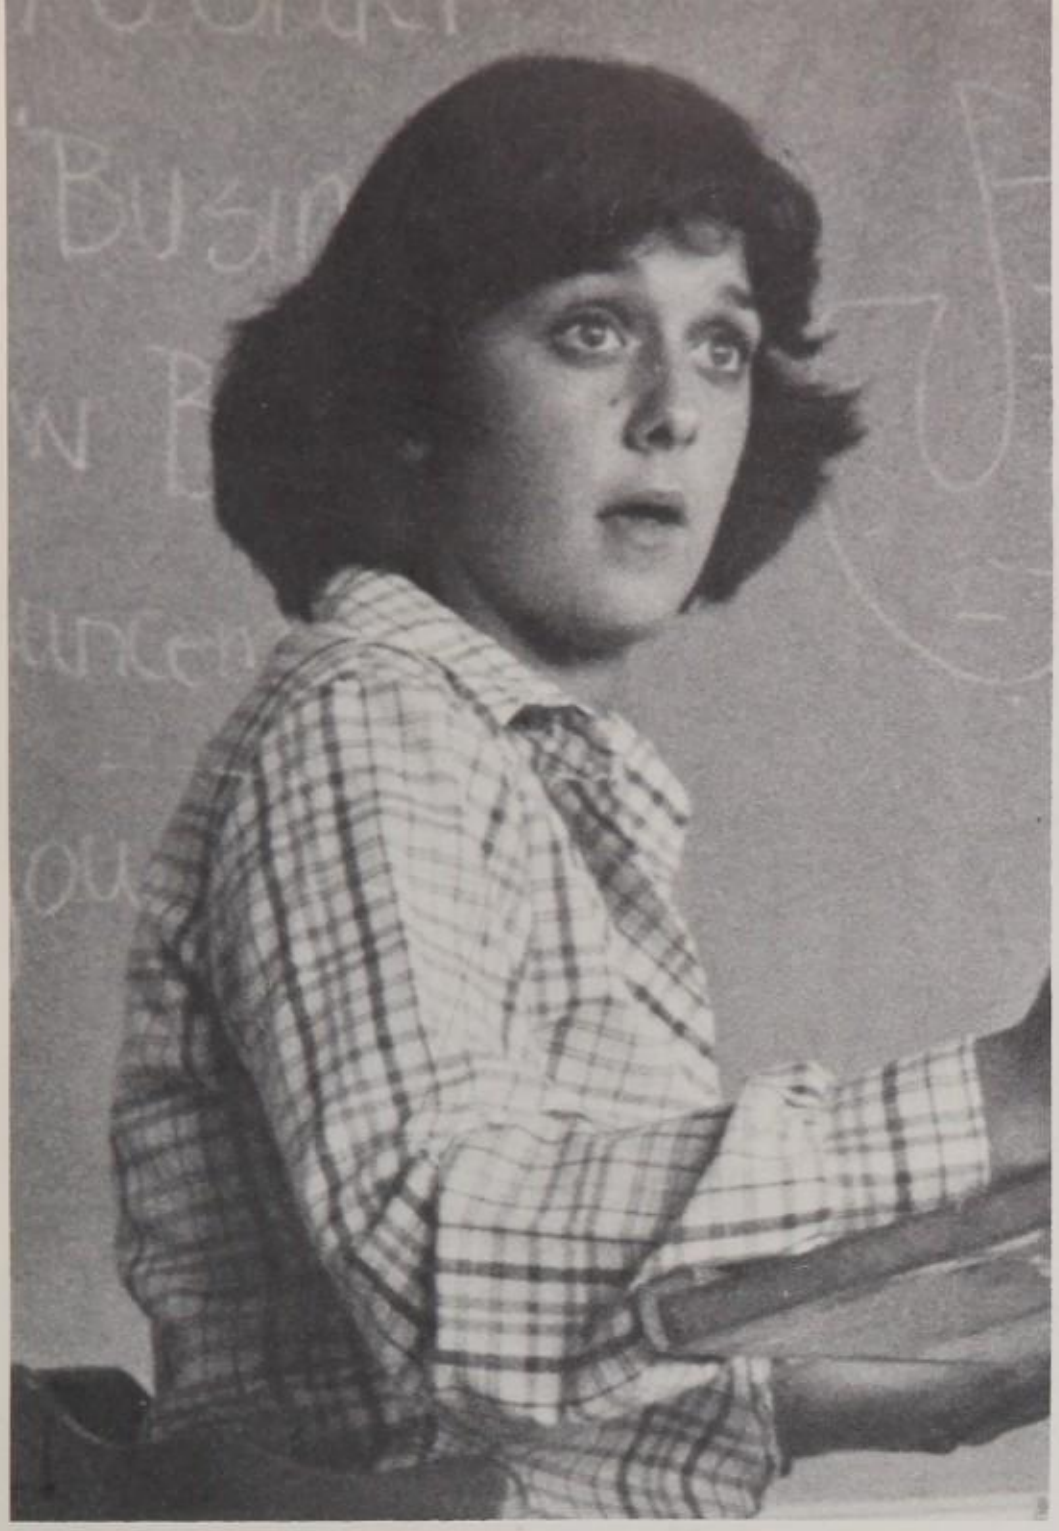
Almost every Friday afternoon without fail room number 254 could be found full of rambunctious students. On these days, as known to the active juniors, class meetings were held to discuss, plan, and organize every project that the juniors sponsored this year.

The attendance at the meeings had improved tremendously since their sophomore year. Some meetings gathered as many as 30 interested members. The junior class officers attributed much of the year's success to those dedicated class members who made the Friday afternoon meetings part of their year.

Juniors listen attentively as Laurie Burge conducts an important class meeting.



"Any further old business?" asks junior president Laurie Burge.

After The Dance — Then What??

Rolling, a favorite pasttime of students, is the art of adorning trees, shrubs, houses, etc., with toilet paper. This weekend activity happened late at night or in the wee hours of the morning. Most of the time a rolling "job" was a spur of the moment thing. It was relatively inexpensive if everyone chipped in, and basically, it was harmless fun. Both "private parties" and entire organizations rolled. An average job required six people, twenty rolls of paper, and two cans of shaving cream — for that finishing touch. The main objective in rolling was to complete the job without interruption so that a finished product awaited the unlucky victim the next morning.

Caught in the act! James Haworth looks stunned!

From the moment the sign-up sheet was posted on the bulletin board, it was evident that the enthusiasm of the junior girls would take them far! This enthusiasm combined with skill and hours of hard practice won the game for the juniors on Tuesday, November 7.

The junior team was led by Kim Milner, Dianne Givens, Denise DiNardo, Tina Riccio, Marion Slaughter, Brenda Spry, Cindy Reckling, and an endless list of girls who "played their hearts out!"

The 8-0 victory was the first time that the "underdogs" have won since 1975. They look forward to next year with much anticipation. As one junior put it, "We're undefeated — what more could we ask for?"

Coach Beskin tells Cindy Reckling to keep her eyes open on the next play. She did, and she scored the only touchdown of the game.

Although only the officers rode in the parade, the junior class asserts that they are a unified group.

Amid the flying paintbrushes, buzzing saws, and rapid chatter on Cedar Lane, something was being constructed. But what? A big, old-fashioned sailing ship that would represent the juniors in the Homecoming Parade on October 27. In mid-September the juniors began the construction on the ship, The Princess Anne, at the home of Erik Murray, junior class vice-president.

The class was very proud of its final product. The finished ship, complete with cannons that fired balloons and carbon dioxide, a mast, and fencing Cavaliers, made a fine debut on Homecoming evening. The juniors had predicted that the Cavaliers would "Touché the Titans" and the game was as much of a success as the festivities.

Two of the many juniors who participated in the float building help to paint a spirit banner for the officers' car.

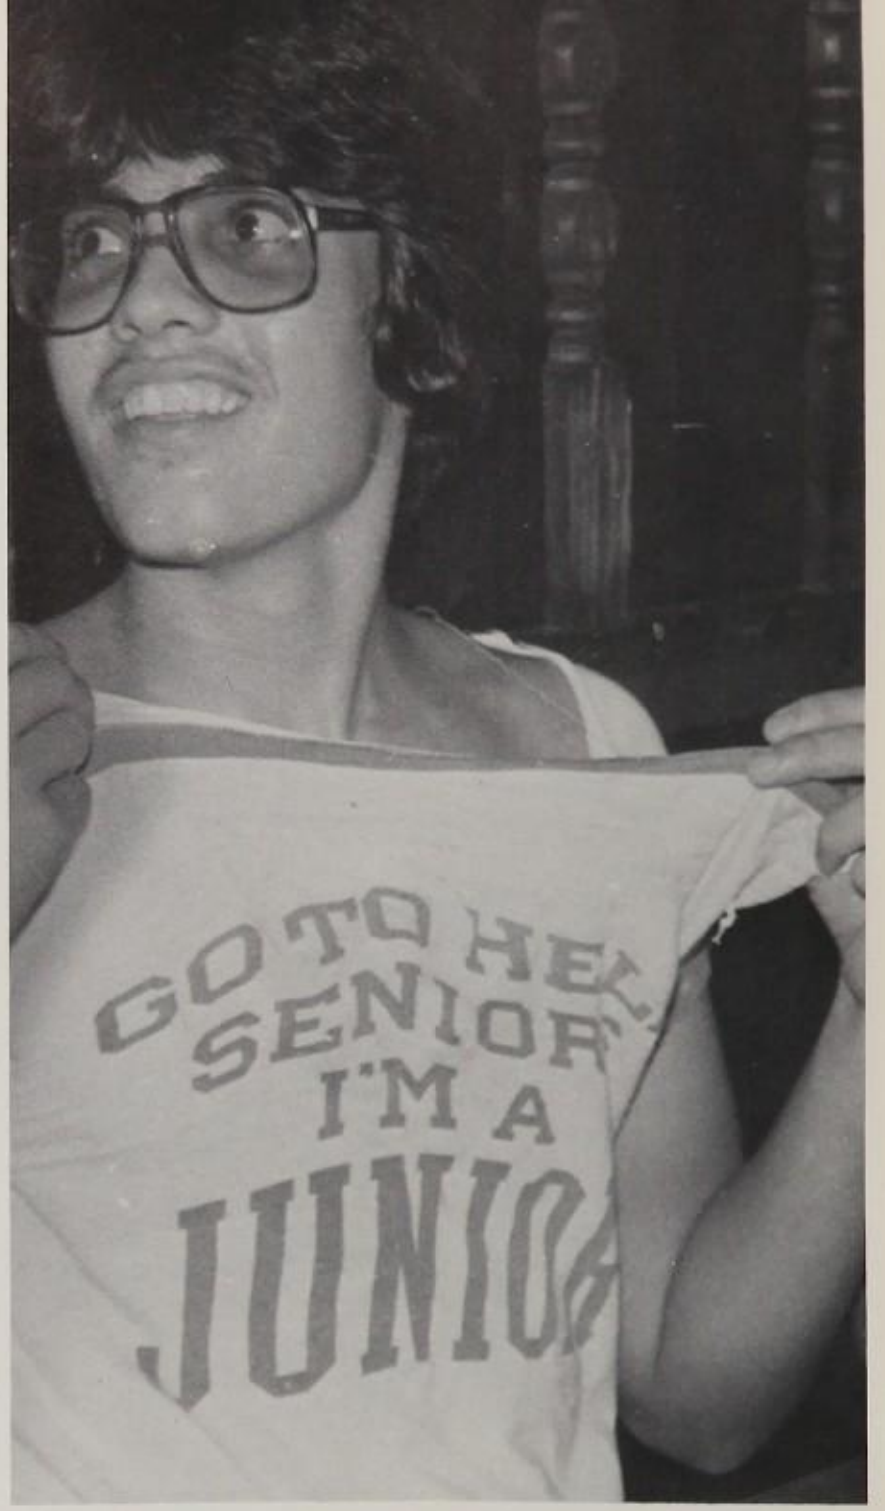
Monday Blues?

Monday nights were the absolute worst . . . but the night of Monday, September 11 was a big exception! At Pizza Inn the Junior Class was sponsoring a Pizza Party, and everyone was there showing their spirit!

The juniors not only showed what a spirited class they were; they added $150.00 to their treasury.



Even though Doug Freind's shirt was ripped by some unfriendly seniors, his class spirit remained intact.

Future Hopes

Five girls were elected in September to lead the sophomore class through the first year of high school. Jean Kaiser, Debbie Bizub, Cindy Briggs, Meg Lanchantin, and Susan Schier worked hard to plan worthwhile activities and to keep the 730 sophomores informed and involved. Homecoming came soon after elections, and the class participated in the hall decorating, spirit chain, and building a float. Car washes, a pizza party, and mistletoe sales helped add money to the treasury for the May Dance. All five girls agreed that their main concern was unity and involvement.

The sophomore officers slide into another year. Officers include: Jean Kaiser, President; Debbie Bizub, Vice-President; Cindy Briggs, Secretary; Meg Lanchantin, Treasurer; Susan Schier, Reporter.

Election skits presented by the sophomore candidates ranged from exterminating poor involvement and poor sportsmanship to comparing the sophomore class to a family tree. In their second assembly of the year, the sophomores listened to the many candidates for class office. They met their class sponsor, Mrs. Cosimano, who explained what the year might hold. One important point stressed over and over was voting. The disappointing voter turn-out amounted to less than half the class voting. This did not deter Mrs. Cosimano nor the officers from planning a busy and productive year.

Debbie Bizub, Alan Webb, Chris Reckling, Jay Seacrist, and Guy Gawrych present a campaign skit just "buzzing" with action and laughs.

A Helping Hand

"We never would have made it without her!" commented a number of sophomores. Their comment was about Mrs. Cosimano, their class sponsor. With tireless energy and enthusiasm Mrs. Cosimano helped the officers plan and do car washes, pizza parties, hall decorating, mistletoe sales, carnation sales, and finally the May Dance. In turn, Mrs. Cosimano had nothing but praise for her hardworking class.

Spirit weak? Not in the sophomore class! The enthusiastic sophomores proved that they had as much, if not more, spirit than any previous class. Many dedicated students spent time decorating the upstairs 300 hall for the Spirit Week competition. They spent money to lengthen the sophomore spirit chain, and they worked long hours to build a float for the colorful Homecoming parade. Yes, Spirit Week was a week many sophomores will long remember.

Dedicated sophomores decorate the upstairs 300 hall for the big competition.

Get Involved!

From a sophomore officer's point of view, there were many reasons why sophomore students did not participate in class activities. Some students did not have transportation which made it impossible to attend meetings. Some were on school athletic teams, so they just did not have the time to participate. A few sophomores had jobs which left them no time for clubs, and some just didn't know what was going on. The biggest problem, however, was lack of interest. There really is no reason for this because at Princess Anne there are many clubs to choose from. Clubs can be a fun and exciting way to make new friends.

Lori Rima, Wendy Walker, and Laura Ryan look down on poor involvement.

Goofing-Off . . .

No matter how busy students were during school, there was always time for goofing off, especially where sophomores were concerned. Some seemed to enjoy seeing just how much they could get away with, but most everything they did was backed by good intentions. Some favorite "goof-offs" included dunking friends faces in water fountains, decorating friends lockers on special occasions, and goodnatured conversations between classes. However, students realized that high school teachers refused to tolerate goofing-off in class, and were, for the most part, cooperative with the rules.

Barney Chambers and Louis Mungin quench their thirsts between classes.

Sophomores Add Life

The 1978 Cavalier football team had an unusually large number of sophomores. Of the twelve sophomores, the three most outstanding players were Jay Seacrist, Ray Ingram, and Chris Reckling. All three lettered, with Seacrist and Reckling scoring touchdowns. The other nine players worked hard to improve our team, and did not disappoint us. With one year of high school football under their belts, we hope they will continue to play even better to bring us a total winning season next year!

Sophomores Glen Ryder and Mary Sprouse share a Coke after the Homecoming game.

Yes, it is a giant step from junior high to senior high. Most students agreed that they experienced quite a change from junior high life with the beginning of high school. They found that more was expected of them — from teachers as well as collegues. High school students were expected to be more mature, to pay more attention in class, and to take pride in their school activities. Yet with all of this new responsibility, sophomores enjoyed the sense of independence that went with it. Hearing "You're on your own now!" made sophomores realize the world was finally accepting them as adults. While some groaned about the workload, the sense of pride that came with attending P.A. made the workload easier to bear.

What's a locker? Sandy Kee struggles to her next class with an armload of books.

Leisure

If there wasn't something for a student to do in school activities, there was always something to do in "The World's Largest Resort City". Surfing is a very popular sport in Virginia Beach, but only one of the many. Other's include skateboarding, swimming, sailing, tennis, partying, and a favorite among the girls, sunbathing.

¿Qué Pasa?

Learning a foreign language can be a very valuable experience. The language classes at P.A. were quite popular, for many students took a language until their senior year. This was helpful when enrolling for college, but there were other assets, too such as foreign food parties, class presentations, learning about far away places, and making video tapes. These were a few of the activities students took part in this year.

Tracy Steele, Katie Hess, Jean Berges, and Greg Ebmeier listen intently to their Spanish lesson.

Mother Nature Comes to P.A.

Solar energy and the worldwide energy crisis were problems that sophomores "tackled" in Ecology this year. Ecology was introduced into the Virginia Beach system this year and P.A. had seventeen students involved.

Virginia Beach's water problems, landfill procedures, bio-degradable solid wastes, kepone and sewage contamination, and oil spills were some of the topics studied by the students.

Students monitered their local environment by taking soil, air, and water tests. Mr. Ed Sadler taught the course which was offered as an elective to tenth graders.

JIMMY CARTER

Whether one was interested in skiing, performing on stage, student government, business, military careers, writing, or music, there was an organization that catered to his interests. Clubs played an important part in the life of Princess Anne and its students. They occupied free time and were opportunities to meet with friends to perform school or community services, or just have a good time.

Organizations were created for the student. It was these clubs and their functions which left the strongest impression of what the school year was.

Rifle Squad Ranks First

Unity with pride was a quote well known to every member of the Drill Team. Pride meant anything from holding one's head high to shining one's boots until every scuff mark disappeared. The Drill Team consisted of forty-three dedicated girls willing to give up weekends, afternoons and nights to represent Princess Anne in the best way they knew how. Some of the highlights of this year included being awarded first place Rifle Squad a number of times during the competition season.

The concentration needed to perfect the technique of playing his instrument is shown on the face of Tim Moreau.

"If you pay your dues now, when your times comes it will all pay off." How many times did the band members hear Mr. Collins' philosophy? Many times — and it paid off. The constant practice by the band started in the early summer and continued throughout the year. The pride and dedication of the band members was evident at their many fine performances. The Marching Cavaliers captured top honors several times this year.

The Tidewater Competition earned the Marching Cavaliers a First Place Over-all in the AAA Division and a 1,000 check. The percussionists placed second in this competition. In the fall the Cavaliers performed in Philadelphia at Veterans Stadium. At Madison University the band placed second in the AAA Division and second in percussion.

In the spring the Cavaliers sponsored their own competition.

Ken Busick and Carrie Lane perform their one act play, "Next," which went to the competitions. It was directed by Linda Batdorf.

It was an eventful year for International Thespian Society Troupe 1762. In late September drama instructor Joe Burnsworth took twenty students to the State Thespian Convention in Charlottesville. The trip was made especially enjoyable when junior Gene Westbrook was elected State Thespian President. Upon return home, the troupe immediately began rehearsals for Neil Simon's comedy Come Blow Your Horn, which had its successful run on November 17 and 18. On December 2, a One-Act and Forensics Night, featuring three student-directed one-act plays, was held. The talent show, an annual event, took place on January 27. All contestants were outstanding and the show proved to be as popular as ever. On April 13, 14, and 15, thirty thespians and drama students took a long-awaited trip to New York to see three Broadway plays. With the running of the second annual musical at P.A. on May 11, 12, and 13, it was hoped that musicals would once again become a tradition at school. And even as the 1978-79 school year drew to a close, the troupe was already preparing for the next State Convention, to be held in September 1979 here at Princess Anne.

"Put the Yule Log On Uncle Jo-o-ohn!"

This year, as always, the choral department's Christmas concert was a noteworthy experience for everyone. The dedication and many hours of work behind the show were apparent in the excellence of their performance. The key to their success has been the skillful direction of their conductor, Mr. Graves. Four Madrigals, Tim Dodge, Gene Westbrook, David Mattern, and Ken Busick formed a Barbershop Quartet this year with Mr. Graves's help. They entertained the spectators at Homecoming and several other events. In Chorus students not only learned new songs and musical styles, but they also had fun perfecting them.

During the Chorus' Christmas assembly, the Madrigals entertained the student body.

Spirit and pride ran high at P.A. The Pep Club, Cheerleaders, and Varsity Club did a great job spreading that spirit. The Pep Club promoted spirit by attending numerous sports activities and raising money through the sale of carnations. To be a member of the Varsity Club, one had to letter in a varsity sport. These students faithfully worked in the concession stands for all the thirsty people who attended the dances. Spirit and cheerleaders were synonymous at P.A.! This enthusiastic group of girls devoted countless hours of their time to cheer at all of the major sports events.

The Foreign Language Clubs worked long, hard hours during the fall to produce this year's winning Homecoming float.

During Foreign Language Week the clubs combined efforts once again as they went from class to class teaching bits of their respective language. The week was also highlighted by an international dance.

Fast becoming a tradition with all the Foreign Language Clubs were the yearly trips to Busch Gardens.

Just about every aspect of Naval training was studied by the students involved in NJROTC — Naval Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps. Under the experienced guidance of Mr. Reimer and Captain Hamrick, both retired Naval Officers, students learned the basic requirements for national security and their personal obligations to contribute to that security as responsible U.S. citizens.

Activities this year included a field trip to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis in the fall, a field trip to the USS NIMITZ for two of the officers, the Military Ball in February, and the Annual Blood Drive in the spring. Cadets also took part in numerous activities requiring a Color Guard.

Sharing Interests In Sports

Ever wonder who held the annual Powder Puff football game, the most popular girl's sports event of the year? The hard-working organizers of this event and several other activities was the Girl's Athletic Association. The GAA enthusiastically worked to spread interest and spirit in PA's athletic events. Through the large profit made from the Powder Puff game, the G A awarded scholarships to deserving seniors.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes combined the teamship and challenges of athletic events with Christian beliefs. Students and coaches alike met biweekly for discussions and films centering around the Christian student-athlete. The FCA sponsored the annual Gong Show, intra-school competitions in sports (such as tug-of-war, basketball, and volleyball), and other social activities. Any student was eligible to belong to the FCA.

Being selected for the National Honor Society, Quill and Scroll, and the French or Spanish National Honor Societies was definitely an honor.

Top grades and good character were needed to become a member of an honor society. Once a person was chosen for one of these groups, their work had just begun.

Many hours were unselfishly given by these students to better their school and their community. Even some of the social gatherings such as the National Honor Society's progressive Christmas dinner were learning experiences.

DECA Sells Experience

D.E.C.A. had a very successful year under the careful and dedicated supervision of Ms. VanHorn, Ms. Smith, and Mr. Beskin. Distributive Education Clubs of America was the national youth organization for D.E. students.

During the fall an all-district rally was held at Bayside High School. P.A. Sponsored an employer-employee-parent banquet, and the D.E.C.A. volleyball team won a second place trophy in the city-wide competition. Fashion Merchandising worked hard to present a professional fashion show and D.E.C.A.'s successful cookie sales gave students experience in selling.

"Seek a Challenge Find Success," was the motto selected by the SCA this year. SCA tried to involve more students in school activities, and they also acted as the main channel of communications between the student body and the administration. Activities included Homecoming, Christmas Warmth Week, Sweetheart Week which honored twelve outstanding senior girls, and a leadership clinic which was held in the spring.

The most important goal of the Keyettes and Trinity Tri-Hi-Y was to provide service to the community. Both organizations sponsored needy families during the holidays, held dances, and sold flowers at special times in the year.

Trinity also collected money for UNICEF at Halloween and visited Thalia Trinity Presbyterian Church. Keyettes worked hard to present the traditional Miss P.A. Pageant.

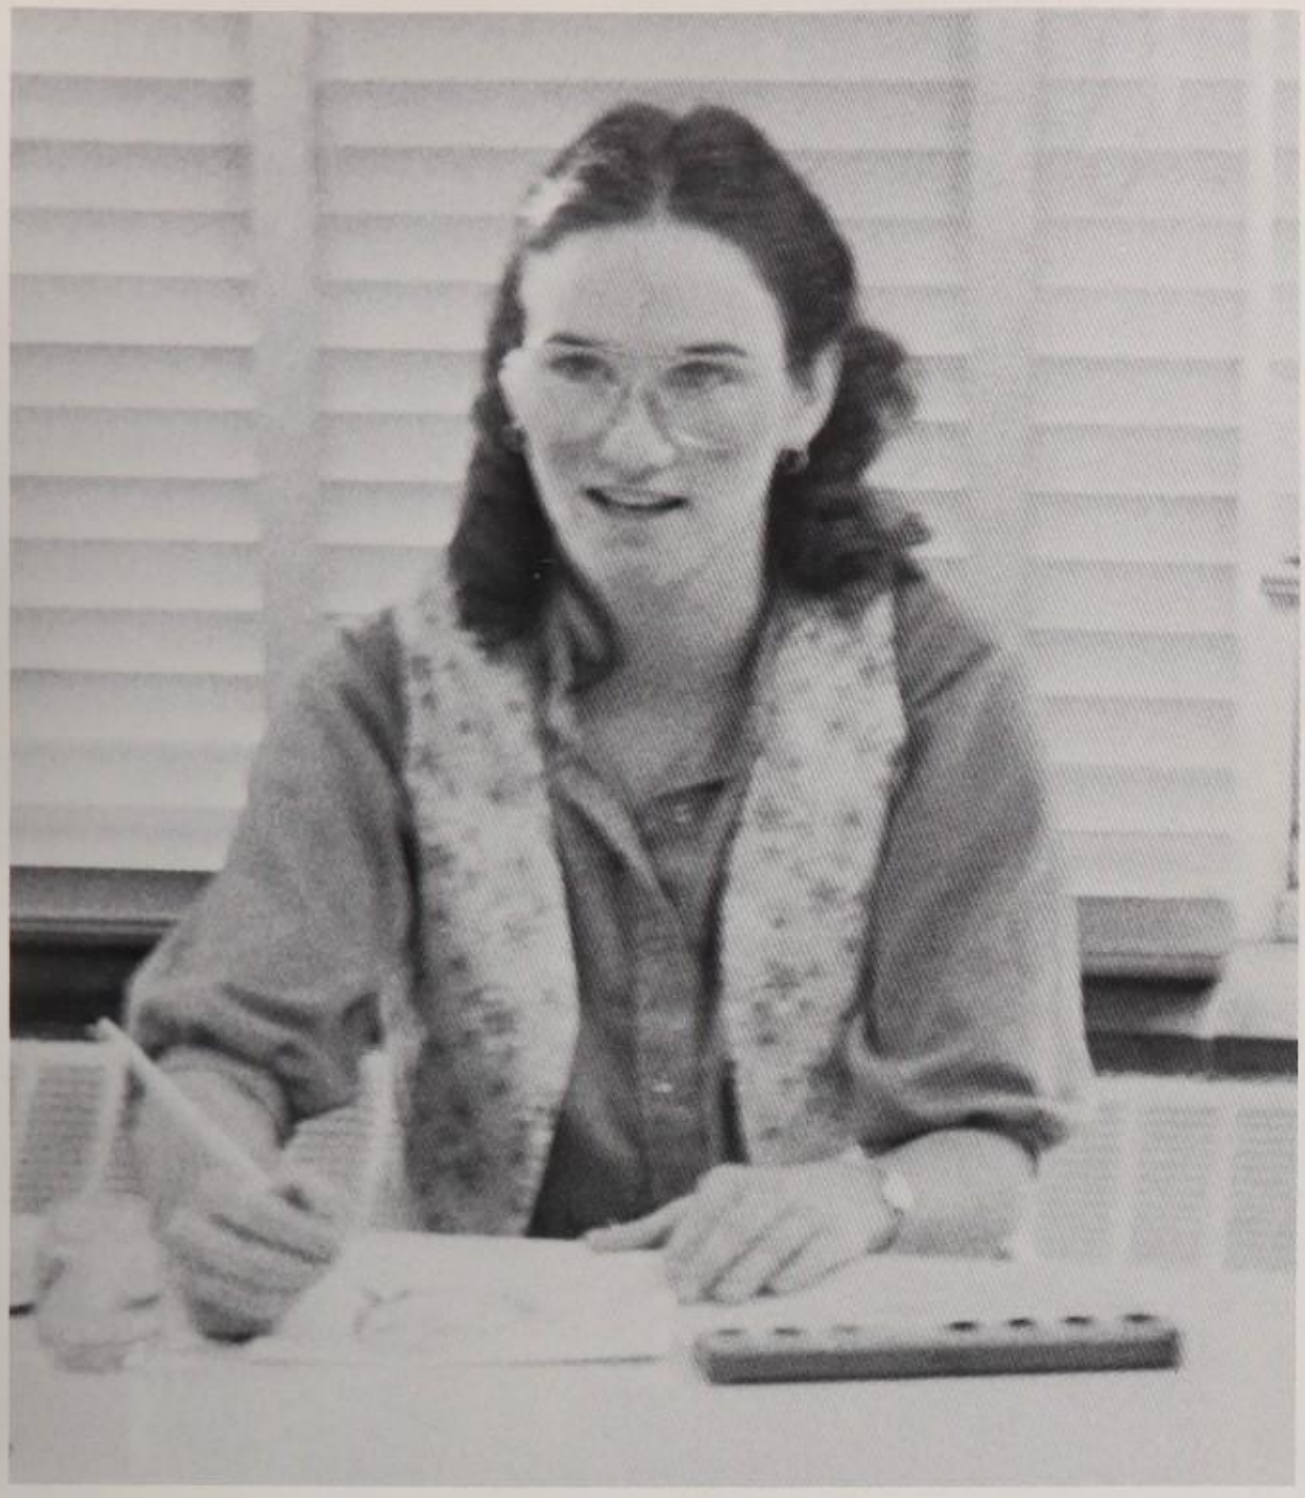
Hobbies And Trades



Art Club member Gina Fritz works on a painting.

It was a busy year for many of the extracurricular clubs at P.A. The Industrial Arts Club worked hard at raising money to send as many students as possible to the National Confernence of Industrial Arts in Memphis, Tennessee. They printed tickets for Thespian plays, T-shirts for DECA, sold buttons during Homecoming , and organized many other fund-raising projects.

The Art Club made ribbons during the football season to promote school spirit, went on field trips, and put on its annual P.A. Art Show.

The F.H.A. sold banners at all the home football games, joined with DECA to contribute canned goods to the needy, and worked hard on other beneficial projects. They also gave a tea for the P.A. faculty at Christmas time.

The Ski Club was organized two years ago to promote skiing among students. They took trips to Snowshoe and Wintergreen in West Virginia. During the semester break, some students went to Mt. Tremblant in Canada and Seven Springs, Pennsylvania. The Ski Club raised money by holding a car wash and selling T-shirts to their members.

The F.B.L.A. encouraged business students to test their skills by competing in various contests. C.O.E. students attended classes in the morning and received on-the-job training by working in an approved office in the afternoon.

Behind Mr. Shackelford, the Guidance counselors, the main office, and the library were groups of students who helped keep things running smoothly.

Instead of having a study hall for one bell during the day, these students helped out by running errands. Mr. Shackelford's workers and the guidance aids delivered hall passes that would normally take time away from an administrator's busy schedule. The office workers aided the secretaries by typing absentee lists and such. The library assistants lightened the workload of the librarians by shelving and checking out books.

The Peerage staff consisted of many inexperienced students this year; however, the Co-Editors had years of experience with yearbook work. The staff and dedicated editors met deadline after deadline to achieve their common goal — a fantastic yearbook! Contributing a great deal to the final outcome were our two extremely committed advisors, Miss Rebecca Debnam and Mrs. Fran Sharer.

A yearbook is filled with memories of a year. These memories are easily relived by simply flipping through its pages. The staff worked diligently to capture the student body's fondest memories in the 1979 Peerage.

Students' memories of Princess Anne are all sure to be connected in some way to at least one faculty member. Teachers have done more than stand in front of classes from eight until two. They have become involved with us, and taught us more than academics. They can truly be called educators.

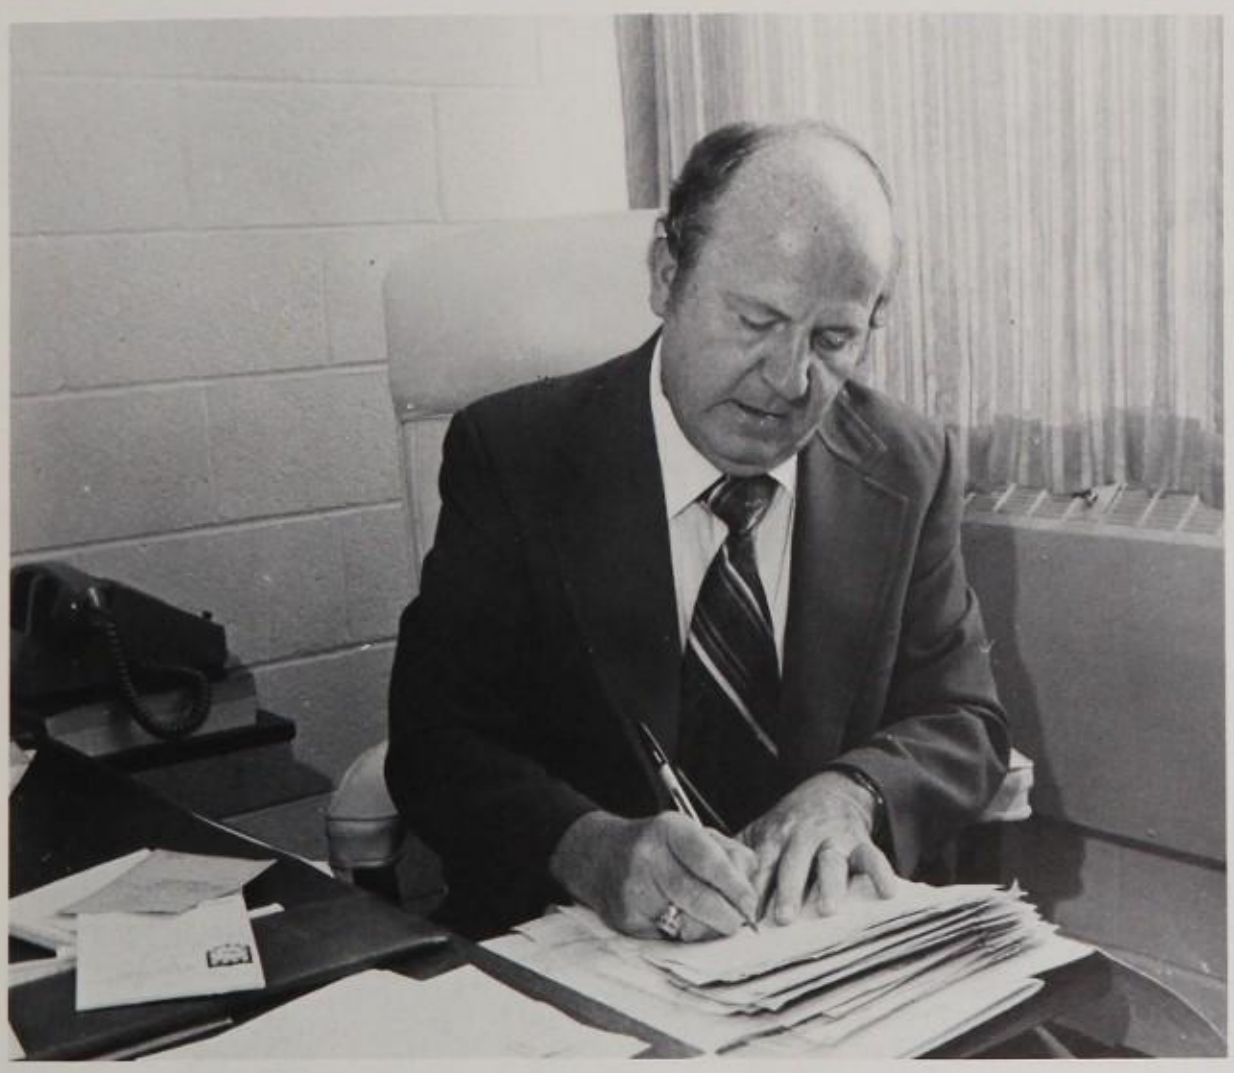
Mr. Hill explains the new thirty-day attendance policy to Scott Doody.

When asked to comment about his years at Princess Anne, Mr. Hill said, "Of the twenty-eight years I have been in the school business, the last five at this school have been the most productive and happy ones I have spent."

Mr. Hill went on to say that he feels more accomplishments and student, teacher recognition have been made at P.A. than at any other school.

"There is no one particular year at P.A. that I could classify as the best. They have all been good."



Mr. Hill once again puts his "John Hancock" on a student activities request form.

So Important!

Many people were valuable in the proper running of a school. Those who did not usually get credit were the librarians, cafeteria workers, and janitorial staff. These people, however, were very important. They made school life so much easier for teachers and students by taking care of many of the jobs we took for granted. Where would we be without the resouces of the library? How would we have made it through sixth bell without a nutritious lunch from the cafeteria? What would happen if no one cleaned up the messes we make? These may seem like trivial questions, but think about them. They're true.

Silver Status Achieved

This is an important year for Princess Anne. We are celebrating our silver anniversary! Since September of 1954, Mr. Robbins, Miss Whitlock, Mrs. Walton, Mrs. Parker, and Mrs. Eason have taught the thousands of students who have filled the classrooms.

What were things like around here in the 1950's? Well, Farm Fresh Supermarket and the surrounding area were little more than a large pasture back then. Students came here from all over Princess Anne county, and for a short time, there were even a few from Knotts Island, North Carolina. Everything stayed in tip-top condition with things being run by J. Warren Littleton, our first principal, and Edwin Charles, the assistant principal.

Fashions have also been through numerous changes over the past twenty-five years. In the 1950's, girls wore bobby socks, pull-over sweaters, and long, billowy skirts with layers of fluffy white petticoats worn underneath. Guys dressed neatly in slacks and shirts, and everyone thought the D.A. haircut looked good . . . except the parents. And in the 1960's, the girls started wearing the mini-skirt, while the guys began wearing their hair longer. Wild, clashy-colored clothes were also popular during that time.

Besides the five faculty members who have been here since 1954, three former students have returned to work. Mr. Frye and Mr. Giordano teach, and Mrs. Fraile is P.A.'s bookkeeper. They, too, have seen many changes. Though the faculty and students change, P.A. remains much the same as when her doors opened in 1954.

Winners!

"I have never felt like a loser in this game because everyone is a winner who plays Powderpuff football," commented Mr. McCrory, who with Mr. Beskin and Mr. Pursell, coached the teams. All three said that they enjoyed coaching the girls and plan to continue.

All three agreed that Powderpuff had many advantages for the girls. It gave them the opportunity for team participation and to make new friends.

Some teachers didn't work an eight to three day and then leave for home. There were those few dedicated activities sponsors who were here long after they were required — working an unpaid overtime.

One of those devoted faculty members was Mr. Burnsworth, the drama coach. Many long afternoons and late nights were spent at school casting parts, helping create characters, and blocking scenes. Sitting alone in a darkened auditorium, he objectively offered constructive criticism that later led to numerous fine performances. Mr. Burnsworth didn't just direct. He also spent time searching for costumes and props, constructing sets, and supervising ticket sales.

Teachers like Mr. Burnsworth were irreplaceable. Their interest in Princess Anne and its students built the frame for what was a successful year.

Mr. Burnsworth puts the finishing touches on Alison Stern's "big cat" makeup.

Some days were like whipped cream — smooth and light. Laughs and witty remarks smoothed away the hours. Other days were punctuated by shrieks and frowns.

"Sign my pass, please!" "I don't understand." "I hate this class!" "Is it time to go yet?" "Is 'at' a noun or a verb?"

Five bells a day teachers were bombarded with questions, papers, discussions, experiments, and a frantic pace.

How did they get through the day? Most found a quiet time in the morning or after the halls had cleared in the afternoon that was their time to be alone. It was those times when thoughts could be clarified; the lesson reviewed and re-thought; and preparations for the day to come could be made. Moments of solitude were a necessity in every teacher's day.

During sixth bell Mr. Jackson finds a few peaceful moments in which to read.

It was Friday. I remember it all so clearly.

I was tired and worn out from band practice all week and glad to get to bed! I pulled off my shoes and socks and hopped into bed with my jeans still on.

The next thing I knew, I was drifting off into a dream world recalling my tiring week. A mindshattering vision popped into my head. In front of me I saw Mr. Collins, my band director, as a slave driver with headknocker hardhat and megaphone in hand.

Suddenly, he began yelling at me — "Head up, feet at a forty-five, look like a winner!"

Realizing that Mr. Collins meant business, I jumped up and began marching frantically. My mother rushed into my room to see what the problem was.

Waking, I realized — "It was only a dream, only a dream, only a dream . . ."

Mr. Collins, alias "Headknocker," instructs the band on proper marching techniques.

Mrs. French, a former P.E. teacher at P.A., has become Student Activities Director.

The idea for an Activities Director came from Mr. Deviney, Student Activities Coordinator of the Virginia Beach schools. Mr. Deviney suggested that there be a director of student activities to coordinate all activities. The job itself included money handling and purchasing of all sports equipment, and organizing all athletic events during the school year.

Mrs. French and five other activity directors met monthly to discuss ticket prices at athletic events, and when to schedule student events. "A major problem is trying to schedule events at different schools on different days," commented Mrs. French. All money made goes into a fund to be used by all schools. Centralized purchasing can be made and the cost of products decreases with the larger number of products purchased."

When asked about the new position, Mrs. French replied that she enjoyed the change from teaching physical education. "It requires more time but is rewarding."

Mrs. French checks her clipboard to see what the day's activities include.

Mondays usually are bad, but this one was dreadful! I was late as noted by the principal and my students. But that wasn't the worst part. I had left my lesson plans at home. Was Bell II discussing Act I, Scene II or was that Bell II?

"Well, I will just ask one of the students; surely they will remember."

"I don't remember, but I think we had finished the whole thing!"

"Oh, no! Could it be?" Yes, I am being observed by my supervisor! My bad day just took a turn for the worse!"

"I couldn't have said that!"

Irreplaceable

Looking back on the entire 1978-79 school year it was hard to recall the events that really made the year one we would remember. There were so many spur-of-the-moment activities we did with friends . . . like going out to consume "refreshments" . . . sleeping through the late show . . . "shopping" at Pembroke Mall with an empty wallet . . . taking night-time walks on the beach in mid-winter . . . cruising down Atlantic Avenue . . . rolling . . . At the time they were just crazy ways to kill time; we didn't realized that we would remember them so vividly now. The people we knew and the things we did with them are what we remember about the year. These irreplaceable times we shared will long be cherished.

Top: Eager students board one of thirty-two school buses that transported them to and from Princess Anne.

Times

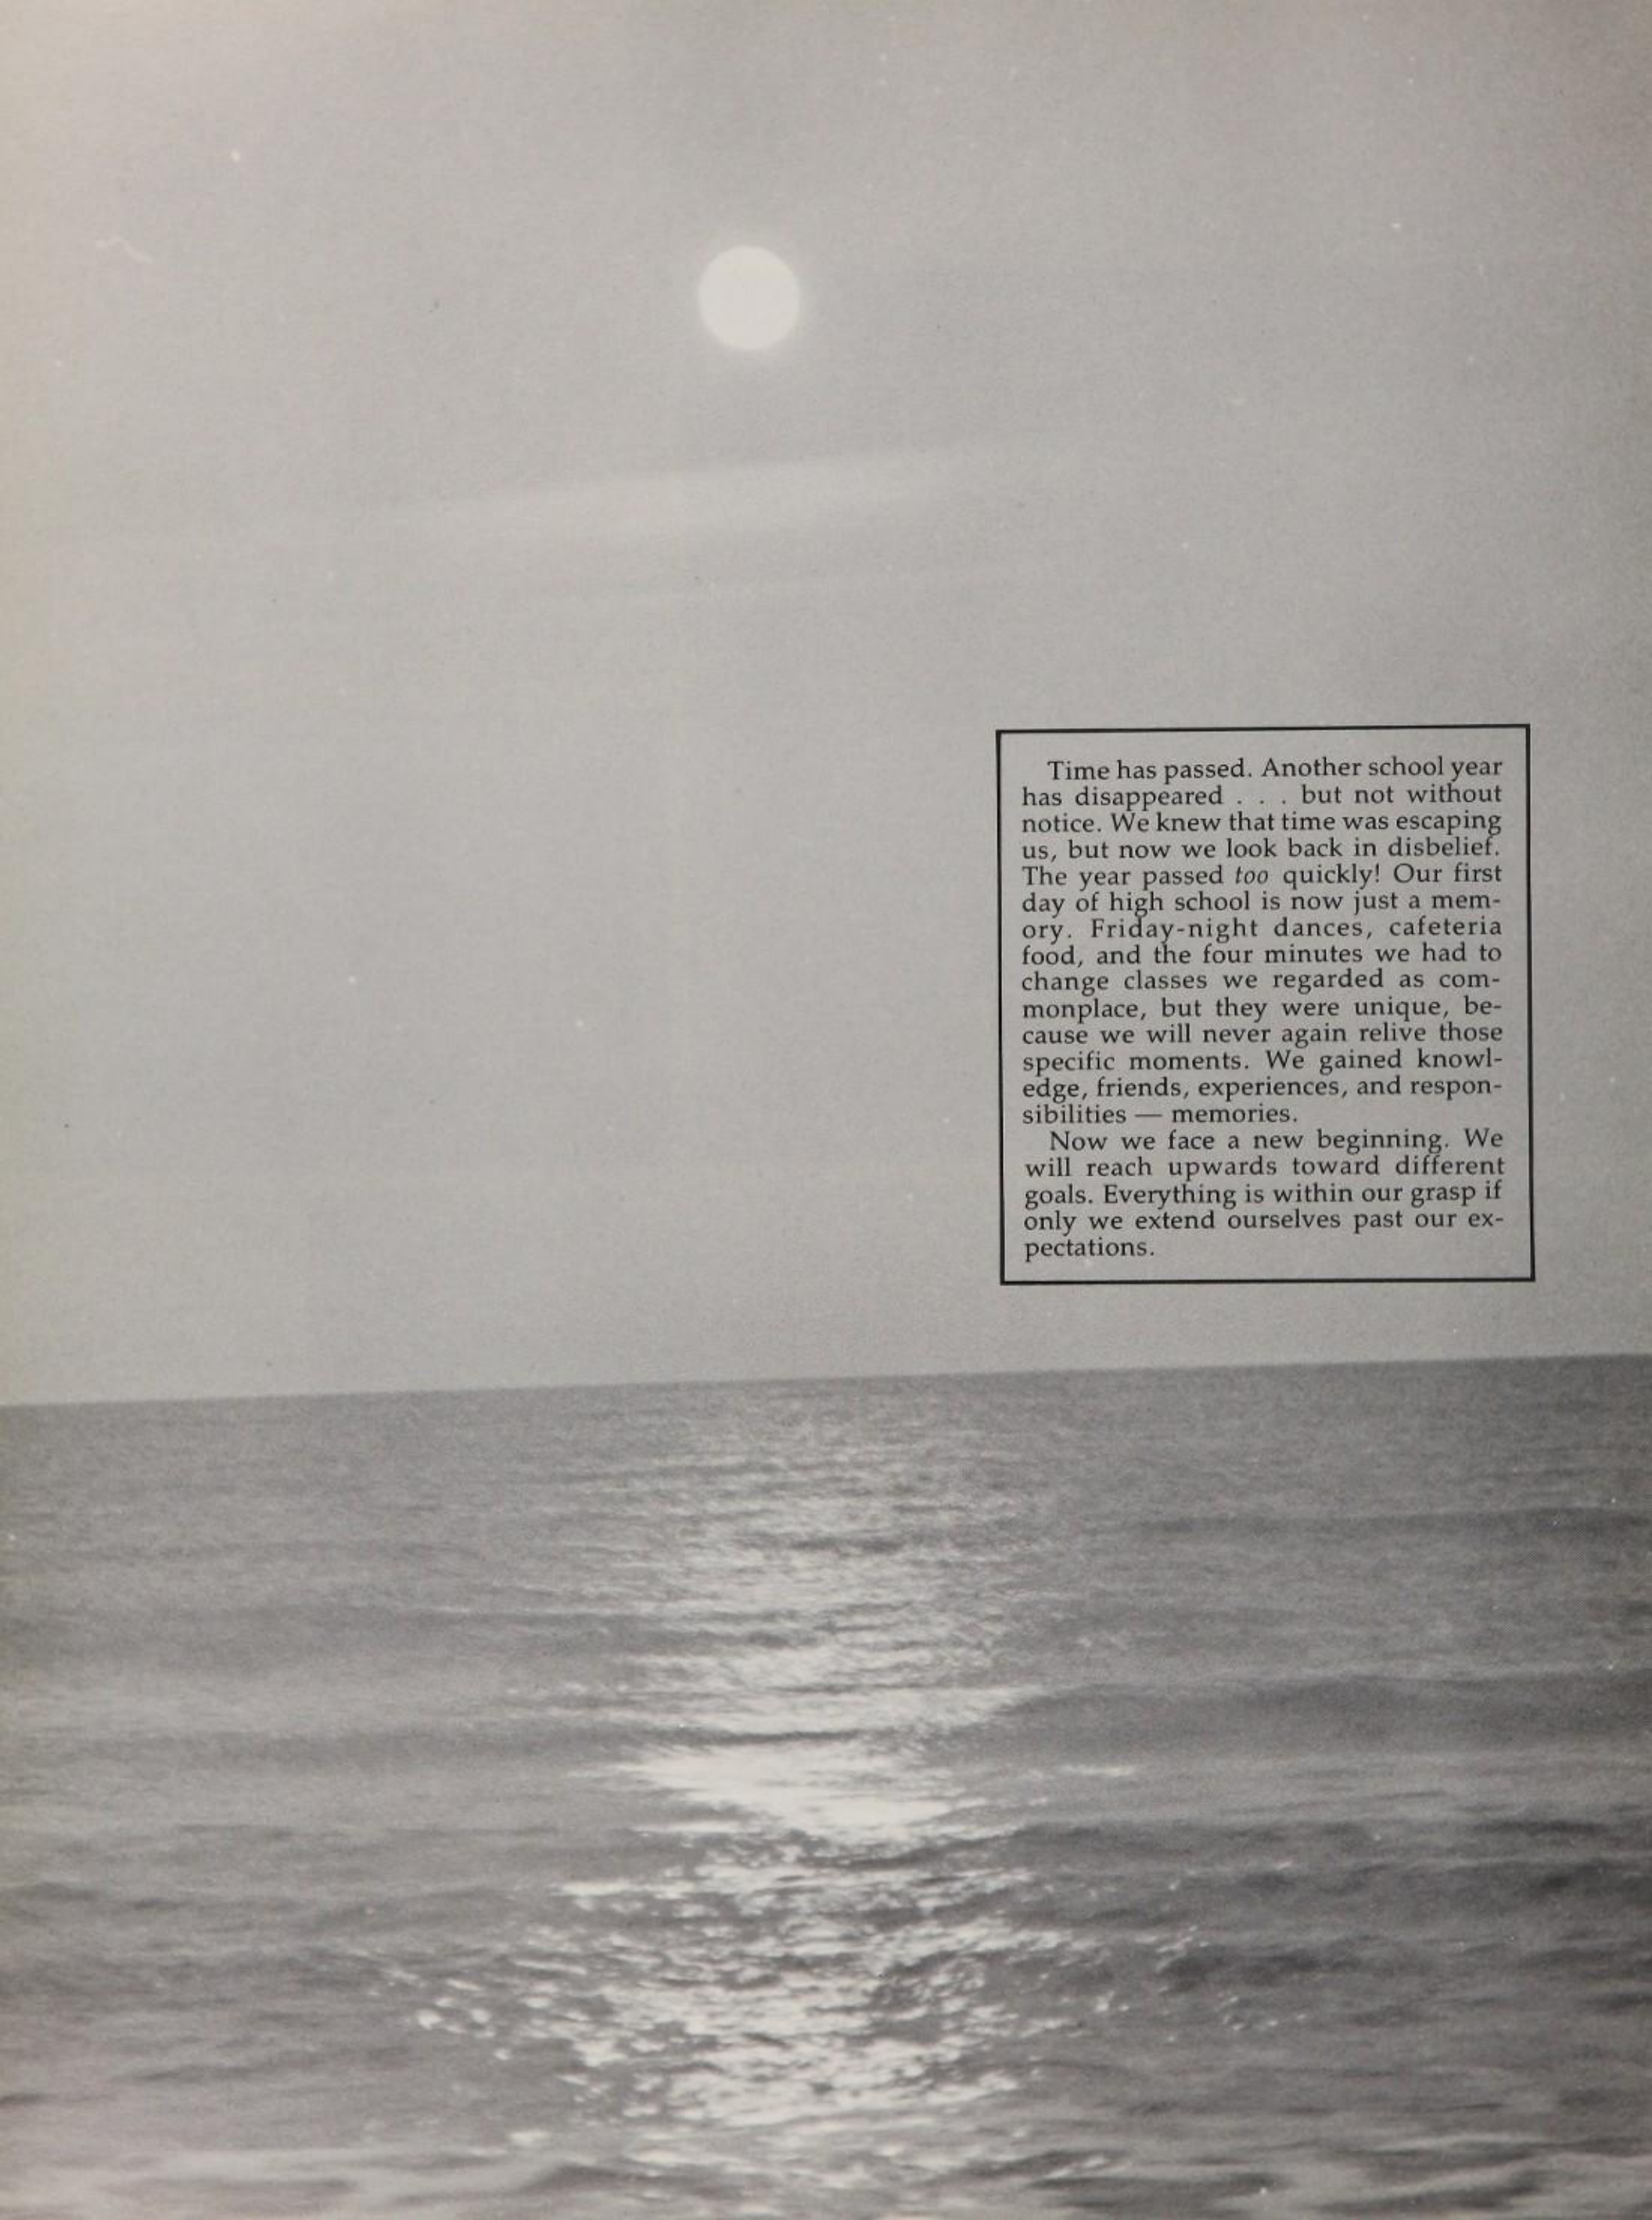
Left: Mr. Watts has a coach-to-player talk with senior Pernell Washington after an afternoon football practice. Above: A student's car boosts a parking sticker which was a requirement for parking in the student parking lot.

The 1979 Peerage was printed by Hunter Publishing Company, Winston-Salem, North Carolina. The publisher's representative was Mr. John Perry. Press run: 1150 books, 220 pages. Paper: Saxony. Cover photo by: Lennie Weiner, McIntosh Studios. Copy and Headline: Palatino. Senior portraits were done by McIntosh Studios. Photo credits: David Broughton, page 8, and Mrs. Joan Kerns, pages 7 and 9.



Time has passed. Another school year has disappeared . . . but not without notice. We knew that time was escaping us, but now we look back in disbelief. The year passed too quickly! Our first day of high school is now just a memory. Friday-night dances, cafeteria food, and the four minutes we had to change classes we regarded as commonplace, but they were unique, because we will never again relive those specific moments. We gained knowledge, friends, experiences, and responsibilities — memories.

Now we face a new beginning. We will reach upwards toward different goals. Everything is within our grasp if only we extend ourselves past our expectations.
